MAY CHANGE THE L. AND R. PROPOSAL

Adopted by Delegates at a Conference Held Friday

NEW PLAN IS FAVORED

Embodying Home Rule for Cities
---Compliment for the Germans.

Columbus, Feb. 4.—No report was made yesterday to the Ohio Constitutional convention of the compromise proposal for the initiative and referendum adopted at the conference of the supporters of that principle of government. Instead the convention listened for several hours to the debate on the liquor license proposal and rejected the Cincinnati plan, so called, of home rule for municipalities, which was offered under a suspension of the rules by Judge William Worthington, of that city.

Inquiry into the terms of the initiative and referendum proposal has raised the question whether it will not force voting upon constitutional amendments through the medium of a petition signed by 4 per cent of the voting population, or about 40,000 electors.

It is provided in the Cresser proposal that upon a 4 per cent petition the General Assembly must take up and dispose of any matter submitted to it within 40 days after the session begins.

Many delegates supposed that this related only to statutes. It now appears that it will apply as well to joint resolutions. It is through the resolutions form that constitutional amendments are submitted to the people, a three-fifths vote being required to adopt them in the General Assembly.

If the Cresser proposal should be made a part of the organic law of the state it would be possible for petitioners to the number of 40,000 to compel the legislators to either submit or reject some joint resolution seeking a constitutional amendment.

Should it be rejected, under the proposal, it would have to be submitted to the people at the next general election. It would have to take the same course. There is, therefore, no alternative provided, and a 4 per cent petition would necessitate the submission of all constitutional amendments sought.

This provision, therefore, renders nugatory the seeming alternative empowering the submission of an amendment without the intervention of the General Assembly upon an initiating petition of 12 per cent.

Discussion of the morals and cities of drinking alcoholic beverages rather than the advisability of regulation and restriction of traffic consumed practically all the time of the debates upon the liquor question, and the speeches were no exception from the rule.

Continuing his address of yesterday, Delegate Henry W. Elson of Athens, announced that he would submit an amendment to the pending proposal providing that no person, firm or corporation should be interested in more than one license. This, he asserted, was a stroke at the brewery-owned saloon.

During his speech yesterday he was taken to task by Delegate Stamm of Sandusky, for making the assertion that 90 per cent of crime was directly due to liquor drinking. Stamm asked him why there were six murders in Athens county, then "dry," while there were only five in Lucas, then "wet." Elson attributed this to the fact that Athens was a mining community and contained lawless elements, but Harbinger of Franklin, called attention to the great disparity in population. Lucas county contained 10,000 people, while Athens was 10,000.

Then Percy Tetlow, a miner, representing Columbiana county, catechized Elson as to whether he meant that the miners composed the lawless element. This the Athens county man repudiated, saying that he referred to the small minority of that class who were foreigners and unable to speak English. Tetlow said that a year ago every mining community in the state was dry, and made so by the votes of miners. He objected to the occupation being sanctioned because of the acts of a few members of it.

During this running debate Watson of Guernsey, twice created a distinct sensation by demanding to know whether the convention was supposed to do something for one of its members who was a drunkard. He did not name the delegate, nor did any one demand that his utterance be made specific.

Opponents of license for the liquor traffic were challenged to provide a substitute for the saloon as a "poor man's club" by Delegate John Ulmer of Lucas county. Ulmer defended the Germans, who, he stated, had been made the objects of criticism for drinking habits unfairly. He urged that concentrated liquors were injuri-

BIG ROLLS SECURED BY BUCHANAN

Victims Were Louisville
Women Who Consulted
"Mahatma Prophet"

ONLY WEALTHY PATRONS Were Sought and It Is Estimated That "Mystics" Left With Nearly $100,000.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 24.—How scores of Louisville women were mulcted of large sums of money in "Temples of Mystery" conducted by Uriel Buchanan, a former "Mahatma" prophet, and Mme. Helf, prophetess, self-styled "Mystics," was told by the police here when Buchanan was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny. His alleged victims are at the point of nervous prostration.

Three women have reported large robberies to the police. They claim they were hypnotized. Details of the wholesale robberies conducted by a group of seers, according to the police, are coming to light. The woman vanished three weeks ago, decamping with $25,000. While Buchanan disappeared last Monday. Police of all large cities of the country have been asked to locate him. It is believed that the "Mystics" cleaned up $100,000 during their brief stay in Louisville.

Only wealthy patrons apparently were accepted, as persons appearing either poor or especially astute were turned away with the statement that "nothing could be done for them." Neighbors' accounts of procedures about the "temples" also were disclosed to the police. Stories of noises at night and of the air of stealth and secrecy preserved in the daytime were told to the detectives.

Mrs. Viola Frey told Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Mix that Buchanan gained such an influence over her that she would have "jumped into the river" had he told her to. She claims she was hypnotized.

Instead of suggesting this Buchanan told her that her husband would die suddenly without leaving a will and that his relatives would deprive her of the estate. To prevent this he told her to take all the money she could get and bring it to him; and under no circumstances was she to tell her husband of what she had done.

Mrs. Frey took $2000 in small bills to Buchanan and she says he changed them for bills of large denomination, placed the latter in a chamois bag, which he tied to her neck, telling her that she was not to open the bag.

Twice he changed the bag, the last time telling Mrs. Frey to return to his office on Wednesday afternoon. When Mrs. Frey got to the office she found many women there in a state of hysteria. Returning home she opened the bag and found it contained only a roll of tissue paper.

Some of Buchanan's instructions to his clients were:

"Put all the money you have in a chamois bag and tie it around your neck. Leave it there a few days, then open it and you will find that you are fabulously rich."

Mrs. George Frey, Mrs. Julia Urban and Mrs. Dean Carroll are the first three women to report their losses to the police.

Buchanan, it is believed here, is a nephew of the notorious Mme. Dissa de Bar, who first gained prominence when she fleeced a New York millionaire named Marsh out of $750,000 through the sale of a batch of "spirit" paintings, and later was head of the Mahatma Temple in New York when E. Augustus Heinze, the Montana copper king, was said to have been the coin-producing patron.

Ethel French, who later sued Heinze for breach of promise, was a disciple in the temple and a man who much resembled the description of Dr. Buchanan was the "Hindu" Cerebro who scrutinized all visitors and turned away those who did not look prosperous. Two years ago he operated in Chicago.

The complaints against Buchanan were made by Mrs. George Frey, who claims to have lost $2000, and Miss Daisy Dean Carroll, who says the "doctor" got $300 from her.

Buchanan opened his office last October, and up to the time of his departure there was a steady stream of women and a few men to the place. He advertised that he was the only member of the "Mystic Brotherhood" in Louisville and in the first stage of his treatment he prescribed after the manner of the East Indian Swami and the African Voodoo medicine men.

Mrs. Frey paid $25 for three months of the "mystic" treatment. "Give me $100 and I will secure you a patent drug from India that

MANILA ROMANCE WILL END IN MARRIAGE OF LIEUTENANT AND GENERAL'S DAUGHTER

MISS SALLIE GARLINGTON

General and Mrs. E. A. Garlington, of Washington, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sallie, to Lieut. Harry D. Chamberlain, of the United States army. Lieut. Chamberlain is in the Philippines, where Miss Garlington met him last winter while on a trip around the world with her aunt, Mrs. Franklin Bell, wife of the former chief of staff of the army. The wedding will take place this summer.

BURGLARS BECOMING BOLDER EAST NEWARK PLACES

Newark's efficient burglars got in another splendid night's work between the hours of 6 o'clock Friday night and the same hour Saturday morning, when two places in East Newark were entered and a large quantity of goods taken. The first robbery was that of the Fred Lisey home, 59 North Morris street, and the second was that of the Mossholder & Reinhart saloon in the New Army building just east of the Main street bridge.

At the Lisey home it is impossible to state what was taken as the Lisey family is now visiting in the Isle of Pines and will not return until after March 1. At the saloon the burglars got enough wine, whiskey, tobacco and cigars to keep them supplied for many weeks unless they engage in one mighty big bag.

Both burglaries were discovered this morning. Mr. Sachs, a son-in-law of Mr. Lisey, discovered the burglary at the Lisey home when he went to the house this morning. He discovered that a rear window had been forced open with a "jimmy." An investigation revealed the fact that the interior of the home had been ransacked from top to bottom. The burglars forced every door which resisted their advance and broke open desks, dresser drawers and every possible place that might conceal something of value.

It is impossible to state whether anything was taken as the family is away, but it is believed, however, the thieves got enough to pay them for their trouble.

The discovery was made this morning by Art Bechman when he opened the place about 5 o'clock and he immediately notified the police department who conducted an investigation. The "jimmy" was taken in charge by an officer and they are now working on several clues.

The Lisey burglary was reported soon afterwards and the officers also investigated this crime and are working on the theory that they were committed by the same parties.

These two burglaries are the latest of a series of jobs of a similar nature many of which have never been made public, following the policy of the department to "cover up" the jobs and keep the information from the newspapers.

ITALIAN WARSHIPS BOMBARD BEIRUT KILLING SIXTY

Beirut, Syria, Feb. 21.—A flotilla of Italian warships this morning bombarded this city, killing 60 peaceful inhabitants and wounding a large number of others dangerously and damaging a number of small Turkish gunboats. The warships appeared out in the bay and the commander of the Italian ships sent out imperative demands for the surrender of the Turkish boats in the harbor. Before the governor could make reply the cruisers opened a devastating fire. In a short time the Turkish gunboats disappeared and in sinking carried their crews with them. The buildings of the city were badly damaged. A great number of people within the zone of firing were slaughtered and a panic ensued, the inhabitants fleeing in droves to the Lebanon hills.

STRIKE RIOTS ARE STILL OCCURRING AT LAWRENCE

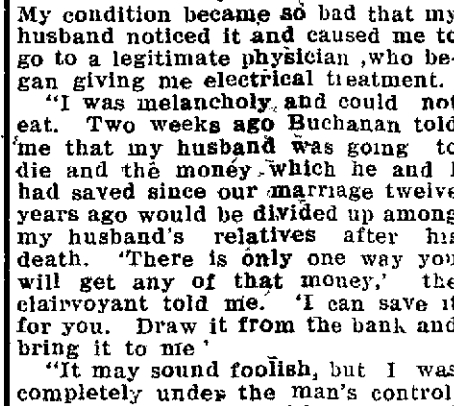

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 24.—Contrary to the orders issued by the city police and militia, prohibiting the exportation of children of the strikers of the textile mills, an unsuccessful attempt was made today by the striking industrial organization to take thirty of them to Philadelphia. Before the militia subdued the strikers several heads were broken by the clubs of the officers and a number of arrests were made and all the children were taken into custody. In order to discourage any attempt to rescue the children, four companies of infantry and a squad of cavalry surrounded the railroad station where the children are in custody. While surrounding the railroad station the striking pickets took advantage of their absence for activity in the foreign quarters. So demonstrative did they become that 35 of them were arrested, 27 of whom were women. Five are the parents of children who were to have been taken to New York or Philadelphia.

ANOTHER CRISIS IN CUBAN AFFAIRS

Washington, Feb. 24.—Another crisis in Cuban affairs is at hand. Reports from the island denote a return of the unrest partially quoted by Secretary Knox's note of warning. The uprising is due to the Cuban supreme court decision invalidating the ousting of officers holding position who were favorable to the Spanish in the revolution. The situation will tax the resources of President Gomez to the utmost.

FROZEN TO DEATH IN SNOW STORM

Omsk, Asiatic Russia, Feb. 24.—A number of persons were frozen to death today in a snow storm which swept this district. Omsk lost 31 persons; another province reports 32 fatalities, and still another further north 105.

WEALTHY FARMER FOUND MURDERED

Gallipolis, Feb. 24.—Peter Sarrier a wealthy farmer living near this city was brutally murdered last night, and his home robbed and burned in an attempt to cover up the crime. Sarrier's head was completely severed from the body and the head was found in the yard while the torso was found on the bed in the farm house. Following a searching investigation by Sheriff Jones and his deputies in which blood hounds were used to follow several trails to and from the house, two negroes living in the vicinity were arrested. They were Milton and Elias Smith and are being held for further investigation.

WEALTHY FARMER FOUND MURDERED

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 24.—An offer of $200 reward systematically telephoned over the vicinity by R. T. McLinn of Wolfe county for the prevention of the marriage of his 16 year old daughter, Monie, heiress to the largest estate in eastern Kentucky, to Oliver Kash, a banker, failed to prevent the marriage. The couple outwitted the police and were married in Cincinnati last night. McLinn suspects a second daughter of an intention to elope and has requested all the county clerks in the surrounding country not to issue a marriage license.

AMUSEMENTS

Press Agent Says:

Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels.
Ever since the fateful day when the eternal chicken crossed the everlasting road there has been minstrelsy and, with minstrelsy and me without woe, quips, gags, cracks and funny stories a performance by troubadours in black face would be as the play of Hamlet with the melancholy Dane, gone around the corner to the Dutchman's.
Mark Twain, the famous author and humorist, was a great lover of minstrelsy and preferred it to all other forms of theatrical entertainment. He is quoted as follows: "Where now is Billy Rice? He was a joy to me, and so were other stars of the nigger show—Billy Birch, David Wambold, Backus and a delightful dozen of their brethren who made life a pleasure to me 40 years ago and later."
It was with a keen realization that it is the fellow of infinite wit who carries a minstrel show to success that induced Al. G. Field to gather about him this season the most talented corps of comedians singers and dancers procurable in the minstrel world.
The result is that the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels this year are the nearest show to the spoken of by Mark Twain. They are a splendid aggregation of fun makers, and have elicited most favorable criticisms from dramatic editors all along their route at the Auditorium tonight.

The Orpheum.
An excellent bill opens at the Arcade theatre Monday for three days Freeman Bros. head the program in a melody singing and dancing act. Both are excellent singers. Devault & Lotta have a pleasing little act, full of original ideas and funny surprises. Rogers & Bumstead will have a high class singing act. Both have fine voices. Geo. Smedley, the one-man orchestra, is an artist on stringed instruments and also has a nice line of comedy. There is a new picture. Continuous motion pictures Sunday from 1:30 to 10:30.

HAD ECZEMA TWENTY YEARS

And Was Cured Completely in Two Weeks Time by the Use of Goodhair Soap.

"Gentlemen: I have been sick, I may say, for the last twenty years. I was born in Springfield, St. Paul, Minn., and Indiana, and was benefited by many treatments, but when I came home I was the same old story. I would lie awake at night and scratch until I was weak and exhausted. Then I would sleep for an hour, but my sleep would only be the cause of more torture when I would wake up. My itching seems to be the worst on my head, face, arms and legs. Sometimes the burning sensations are enough to drive me crazy. There are no sores of any kind on me, only a dry scaly skin, or it is raw and very tender. I have spent a fortune in medicine, have taken remedies by the dozen; would use a bottle of Goodhair Soap in two days. I could not say how many bottles of Goodhair Soap I have used. I have tried more than I HAVE DEERED MORE BENEFIT FROM GOODHAIR SOAP THAN ANY OTHER I HAVE TRIED. I CAN GO TO BED NOW AND STAY UNTIL I AM READY TO GET UP. I HAVE NOT DONE IN TEN OR FIFTEEN YEARS."

I have told three friends of mine who are troubled with eczema, that they could not get that soap here. The drug clerk said he had not heard of it before. I shall never forget the kindness of Dr. Hughes of Garrett, Ind. He has told everything in his power. Everything he has heard of he has told me to do, and now through his kindness I am cured. I have a box of Goodhair Soap at your convenience. I remain, with many thanks for your trouble, THOMAS RYAN, 8743 Superior Ave., South Chicago, Ill. If your druggist will not supply you with Goodhair Soap, send me to Goodhair Remedy Co., Newark, Ohio. Sample on request.

Ordinance No. 2165.

To regulate ale, beer and porter shops and the sale of intoxicating liquors. Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Newark, Ohio, That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation owning or keeping any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours. Section 4. For any person, firm or corporation keeping or owning any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours. Section 5. For any person, firm or corporation keeping or owning any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours. Section 6. For any person, firm or corporation keeping or owning any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours. Section 7. For any person, firm or corporation keeping or owning any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours. Section 8. For any person, firm or corporation keeping or owning any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours. Section 9. For any person, firm or corporation keeping or owning any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours. Section 10. For any person, firm or corporation keeping or owning any ale, beer or porter shop or other place of whatever description for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to keep or permit any screen or other device to be placed in said shop or place which will interfere with a full and unobstructed view of the bar, street or other place during the day of the week except the first day of the week, or give away or permit the sale of or giving away in any such shop or place of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, or other intoxicating liquors between said hours.

NO HEARTBURN DYSPEPSIA OR SICK STOMACH

Every family here ought to keep some Diapiesin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night. This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a distressed, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion. Ask your pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Diapiesin, and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is an efficient cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach was not there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at your drug store, waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin contain more than sufficient to cure any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other Stomach trouble.

HAD FINE DISPLAY AT SAN PEDRO FAIR ON ISLE OF PINES

James Wilson, former Newarkite, Writes Entertainingly of His Experiences.
Mr. and Mrs. Thos. R. Wilson, Mr. Wilson being a member of the East End fire department, have received the following letter from their son, James, who is now located at San Pedro, Isle of Pines:

I just got home from the fair and thought I would write you a few lines. We went in Monday afternoon and Grace and the children came home this morning in the machine and I rode home horseback this evening. Tuesday was the first day of the fair and was San Pedro day. We had a fine day and a good crowd. In the afternoon we had speaking and three horse races, and San Pedro comes won two of the races. In the evening we had an entertainment, which you will read all about in the Appeal. There was a prize of a gas plant, valued at $75, for the largest agricultural exhibit; entered through any one of the nine business organizations of the island. The San Pedro Industrial Club decided that they wanted to compete for the prize and asked me to put up the exhibit and said if I won the plant I could have it or they would buy it from me. This was about three weeks before the fair. I told them that we did not stand a very good chance, as our gardens were young and the colony was the youngest on the island, also the smallest by big odds when it came to agricultural products, but I told them to make the exhibit and went to work on it. I did all the work myself and no one knew how much I had until I had it on exhibition. I don't think there was a person on the tract thought I could get enough to make a good exhibit. But this not being a first fruit and vegetable display I had to put up a list of products to surprise them. When I loaded my products Monday to take them in, it took three mule teams to haul them there. Some of the people began to open their eyes and wonder where I got all the goods. Of course I had the whole San Pedro tract to work on, natives and all. Well, when I reached the fair buildings in Santa Fe the other organizations began to get scared and Santa Fe started every man woman and child out after exhibits, and Columbia, only a few miles away, did the same thing. Santa Fe has twenty times the population we have and even got Mason Bros. to put their exhibit with them, and they have the largest fruit farm in hearing on the island. Columbia is the oldest American colony on the island, so you see I had some competition. There were nine colonies in the race and I finished third, Columbia second and Santa Fe first. But I had the largest variety of exhibits and the best looking one. I had eighty some entries that they did not have on their premium list. Altogether I had 123 entries. You will get all the news in general in the papers, but I will give you a list of my premiums.

For the best exhibit of vegetables in plates, second prize, value $8; radishes, second, 50c; pineapples, second, $3; green corn, second, $1; beans, second, $1; malanga (this is a native potato), first, $2; pumpkins, second, $1; rice, second, $1; peanuts, second, $1; cocoanuts, second, $1; corn on the cob, second, $1; tobacco, second, $1; forage plants, first, $2; sugar cane, second, $1; hay, first $1; best pen Silver-laced Wyandottes (chickens), first $2; Columbian Wyandottes, first $2; Barred Plymouth Rocks, second $1. I think I will get first prize for the best exhibit of any kind of vegetables; it was not decided when I left today. I get all the premiums and all the vegetables and fruit with the exception of a little I will return to the owner. I had a fine display and was proud of it, even if I didn't get the light palm.

Well, I see by the paper you are still having some sickness and a few deaths. I hope you don't take cold when it begins to thaw and gets bad in March. Pau wrote us about the Music Hall fire, but she said nothing about you, whether you were on duty or not, and we have been wondering how you stood it. How is Driscoll getting along? I hope it will not prove serious. Every one is very busy here now; my team is still working every day and will have plenty of work all summer. We are all well, and James is sure, some boy. Dorothy and Lorraine are doing fine in school. We have the editor of the Columbus Dispatch with us. He and his wife have been here for a week and when he gets home he will likely have a big write-up on the island and the fair.

Tell Browney that it has been a long time since I did any topping or turning the sunny side up of fruit and vegetables, but when I put up my display I found that I had not forgotten how to do it. Well, it is getting late and I am tired, so I will close for this time, hoping this will find you all well and happy. Give my regards to all my friends.

LABOR NEWS

The regular meeting of Newark Trades and Labor Assembly will convene tomorrow morning and it is the desire of the Assembly that all delegates be present. Some very important business will be attended to. Our last meeting was a hummer in point of numbers and much interest was manifested. All officers were present except President Archer and Guard Hollar; First Vice President Fred Hall presided with honor to himself and the Assembly.

Many communications were read and referred to proper committees. The Teamsters' Union presented resolutions protesting against the letting out by contract of the cleaning of the streets of our city. The resolutions were unanimously endorsed by the Assembly.

By a prevailing motion the commission of Organizer J. W. Adams was endorsed. The Arbitration committee will have some reports of interest to make, also the legislative committee. Brother Wiley of Chicago, Ill., general organizer for the Bakers' International Union of North America may be with us. Come out and hear the gifted German orator.

Shocking Sounds

WATKINS AND GRIM TO VISIT THE CITY SOON

A letter from Manager Jack Grim today states that Mr. Watkins and Mr. Grim will attend the State League meeting in Columbus, beginning Monday. He states that it is all probability the two will visit Newark before their return to Indianapolis.

SCHWEITZER NOT PLEASED WITH MEMPHIS SALE

Al. Schweitzer is not in the least pleased with his transfer to the Memphis team of the Southern League, according to a statement of a Mt. Vernon paper. The "Cheese Man" first learned of his fate when he read the paragraph in the telegraphic column of a Columbus paper. He stated that he would rather have gone east than south. Schweitzer has received no information from St. Louis regarding the sale and he has no idea when he will be expected to report. Speaking of Schweitzer, this Dutchman is some bowler. In the "Merry Widow" tournament at Mt. Vernon he entered with two different men, the first team rolling 1164 pins in three games and his second 1102. Schweitzer's score in the first game was 227-215-207. In the second game he rolled 166-209-200. His first score placed his team in the lead in the tournament.

WANTS AMATEUR GAMERS.
C. B. Jones of Columbus has written the Advocate sporting editor, asking to be put in touch with managers of amateur baseball teams with a view of arranging for games for the coming season. Mr. Jones can be reached by addressing him in care of "The Vogue Shop," Columbus, O.

CHAPTER VI.

Betty Sets Out for Tennessee.

Betty's first memories had to do with long nights when he perched beside his father on the cabin roof of their keel-boat and watched the stars or the blurred line of the shore where it lay against the sky, or the lights on other barges and rafts drifting as they were drifting, with their wheat and corn and whisky, to that common market at the river's mouth.

Betty Carrington had seen the day of barge and raft reach its zenith, had heard the first steam packet's shrieking whistle, which sounded the death-knell of the ancient order, though the shifting of the trade was a slow matter and the glory of the old did not pass over to the new at once, but lingered still in mighty fleets of rafts and keel-boats and in the Homeric carousals of some ten thousand of the half-horse, half-alligator breed that nightly gathered in New Orleans.

After the reading of the warrant that morning, Charley Balaam had shown Carrington the road to the Forks, assuring him when they separated that with a little care, and decent use of his eyes, it would be possible to fetch up there and not pass plumb through the settlement without knowing where he was.

He was on his way to Fayetteville, where he intended to spend the night, and perhaps a day or two in looking around, when the meeting with Betty and Murrell occurred. The girl's face remained with him. It was a face he would like to see again.

He was still thinking of the girl when he ate his supper that night at Clegggett's Tavern. Later, in the bar, he engaged his host in idle gossip. He had met a gentleman and a lady on the road that day! he wondered, as he toyed with his glass, if it could have been the Ferrises? Mounted? Yes, mounted. Then it was Ferris and his wife—or it might have been Captain Murrell and Miss Malroy. Miss Malroy did not live in that part of the country, she was a friend of Mrs. Ferris, belonged in Kentucky or Tennessee, or somewhere out yonder—at any rate she was bringing her visit to an end, for Ferris had instructed him to reserve a place for her in the north-bound stage on the morrow.

Carrington suddenly remembered that he had thought of starting north in the morning himself.

The stage left at six, and as Carrington climbed to his seat the next morning Mr. Clegggett was advising the driver to look sharp when he came to the Barony road, as he was to pick up a party there. It was Carrington who looked sharp, and almost at the spot where he had seen Miss Malroy the day before he saw her again, with Ferris and Judith and a pile of luggage bestowed by the wayside. Betty did not observe him as the coach stopped, for she was intent on her farewells with her friends. There were hasty words of advice from Ferris, prolonged good-bys to Judith, tears—kisses—while a place was being made for her many boxes and trunks. Carrington gathered that she was going north to Washington; that her final destination was some point either on the Ohio or Mississippi, and that her name was Betty. Then the door slammed and the stage was in motion again.

All through the morning they swung forward in the heat and dust and glare, and at midday rattled into the shaded main street of a sleepy village and drew up before the tavern where dinner was waiting them.

Betty saw Carrington when she took her seat, and gave a scarcely perceptible start of surprise. Then her face was flooded with a rich color. This was the man who saw her with Captain Murrell yesterday! There was a brief moment of irresolution and then she bowed coldly.

It was four days to Richmond. Four days of hot, dusty travel, four nights of uncomfortable cross-road stations, where Betty suffered sleepless nights and the unaccustomed pangs of early rising. She occasionally found herself wondering who Carrington was. She approved of the manner in which he conducted himself. She liked a man who could be unobtrusive.

The next morning he found himself seated opposite her at breakfast. He received another curt little nod, cool and distant, as he took his seat.

"You stop in Washington?" said Carrington.

Betty shook her head. "No, I am going on to Wheeling."

"You're fortunate in being so nearly home," he observed. "I'm going on to Memphis."

Betty exclaimed: "Why, I am going to Memphis, too!"

"Are you? By canal to Cumberland, and then by stage over the National Road to Wheeling?"

Betty nodded. "It makes one wish they'd finish their railroads, doesn't it? Do you suppose they'll ever get as far west as Memphis?" she said.

"They say it's going to be built on the river trade when they're built on something besides paper," answered Carrington. "And I happen to be a flatboatman, Miss Malroy."

No more was said just then, for Betty became reserved and did not attempt to resume the conversation. A day later they rumbled into Washington, and as Betty descended from the coach Carrington stepped to her side.

"I suppose you'll stop here, Miss Malroy," he said, indicating the tavern before which the stage had come to a stand.

"Yes," said Betty briefly.

"If I can be of any service to you—" he began, with just a touch of awkwardness in his manner.

"No, I thank you, Mr. Carrington," said Betty quickly.

"Good night . . . good-by," he turned away, and Betty saw his tall form disappear in the twilight.

A month and more had elapsed since Bob Yancy's trial. Just two days later man and boy disappeared from Scratch Hill. Murrell was soon on their trail and pressing forward in hot pursuit. Reaching the mountains, he heard of them first as ten days ahead of him and bound for west Tennessee; the ten days dwindled to a week, the week became five days, the five days three; and now as he emerged from the last range of hills he caught sight of them.

Yancy glanced back at the blue wall of the mountains where it lay along the horizon.

"Well, Nevvy," he said, "we've put a heap of distance between us and old Scratch Hill."

For the past ten days their journey had been conducted in a leisurely fashion. As Yancy said, they were seeing the world, and it was well to take a good look at it while they had a chance.

Suddenly out of the silence came the regular beat of hoofs. These grew nearer and nearer, and at last when they were quite close, Yancy faced about. Smilingly Murrell reined in his horse.

"Why—Bob Yancy!" he cried in apparent astonishment.

"Yes, sir—Bob Yancy. Does it happen you are looking for him, Captain?" inquired Yancy.

"No—no, Bob. I'm on my way west."

Murrell slipped from his saddle and fell into step at Yancy's side as they moved forward.

"They were mighty stirred up at the Cross Roads when I left, wondering what had come of you," he observed.

"That's kind of them," responded Yancy, a little dryly. There was no reason for it, but he was becoming distrustful of Murrell, and uneasy.

They went forward in silence. A sudden turn in the road brought them to the edge of an extensive clearing. Close to the road there were several buildings, but not a tree had been spared to shelter them and they stood forth starkly, the completing touch to a civilization that was still in its youth, unkempt, rather savage, and ruthlessly utilitarian. A sign announced the dingy structure of logs nearest the roadside a tavern.

From the door of the tavern the figure of a man emerged. He was black-haired and bull-necked, and there was about him a certain shagreen which a recent toilet performed at the horse trough had not served to mitigate.

"Howdy?" he drawled.

"Howdy?" responded Mr. Yancy.

"Shall you stop here?" asked Murrell, sinking his voice. Yancy nodded.

"Can you put us up?" inquired Murrell, turning to the tavern-keeper.

"I reckon that's what I'm here for," said Slosson. Murrell glanced about the empty yard. "Slack," observed Slosson languidly. "Yes, sir, slack's the only name for it." It was understood he referred to the state of trade. He looked from one to the other of the two men. As his eyes rested on Murrell, that gentleman raised the first three fingers of his right hand. The gesture was ever so little, yet it seemed to have a tonic effect on Mr. Slosson. What might have developed into a smile had he not immediately suppressed it, twisted his bearded lips as he made an answering movement. "Eph, come here, you!" Slosson raised his voice. This call brought a half-grown black boy from about a corner of the tavern, to whom Murrell relinquished his horse.

"Let's liquor," said the captain over his shoulder, moving off in the direction of the bar.

"Come on, Nevvy!" said Yancy following, and they all entered the tavern.

"Well, here's to the best of good luck!" said Murrell, as he raised his glass to his lips.

"Same here," responded Yancy. Murrell pulled out a roll of bills, one of which he tossed on the bar. Then after a moment's hesitation he detached a second bill from the roll and turned to Hannibal.

"Here, youngster—a present for you," he said good-naturedly. Hannibal, embarrassed by the unexpected gift, edged to his Uncle Bob's side.

"Thank you, sir," said the boy.

"Let's have another drink," suggested Murrell.

Presently Hannibal stole out into the yard. He still held the bill in his hand, for he did not quite know how to dispose of his great wealth. After debating this matter for a moment he knotted it carefully in one corner of his handkerchief.

In the tavern the three men were drinking—Murrell with the idea that the more Yancy came under the influence of Slosson's corn whisky the easier his speculation would be managed. Mr. Yancy on his part believed that if Murrell went to bed reasonably drunk he would sleep late and give him the opportunity he coveted, to quit the tavern unobserved at break of day.

"When yo' get to feelin' like sleep, young boss, Mas'r Slosson he says I show yo' to yo' chamber." It was Slosson's boy, Eph.

"Yes, you can show me my chamber," Hannibal said.

Eph secured a tin candle-stick with a half-burnt candle in it and led the way into the passage back of the bar.

They mounted a flight of stairs and passed down a narrow hall. This brought them to the back of the building, and Eph pushed open the door on his right.

"This beah's yo' chamber," he said, and preceding his companion into the room, placed the candle on a chair.

The moon was rising and Hannibal went to the open window and glanced out. For a moment he considered the night, not unaffected by its beauty, then, turning from the window, he moved his bundle and rifle to the foot of the bed, where they would be out of his way, kicked off his trousers, blew out the candle and lay down.

Yancy had become more and more convinced as the evening passed that Murrell was bent on getting him drunk, and suspicion mounted darkly to his brain.

"Have a drink with me!" cried Slosson, giving way to drunken laughter.

"The captain's dropped out, and I low it's about time fo' these here festivities to come to an end. I'm thinking some of going to bed myself," said Yancy. He kept his eyes fixed on Murrell. He realized that if the latter could prevent it, he was not to leave the bar. He never shifted his glance from Murrell's face. Scowling now, the captain's eyes blazed back their challenge as he thrust his right hand under his coat.

"Fair play—I don't know who you are, but I know what you want!" said Yancy, the light in his frank gray eyes deepening. Murrell laughed and took a forward step. At the same moment Slosson snatched up a heavy club from the back of the bar and dealt Yancy a murderous blow. A single started cry escaped the Scratch Hiller; he struck out wildly as he lurched toward Murrell, who drew his knife and drove it into his shoulder. Yancy dropped heavily to the floor.

How long the boy slept he never knew, but he awoke with a start and a confused sense of things. It was evidently very late, probably long after midnight—but where was his Uncle Bob?

He sank back on his pillow, intent and listening. A chilling terror that gripped him fast and would not let him go, mounted to his brain.

Where was his Uncle Bob? Why didn't he come to bed? Memories of idle tales of men foully dealt with in these lonely taverns flashed through his mind.

He slid from the bed, and for a long moment stood cold and shaking, his every sense on the alert. With infinite caution he got into his trousers and again paused to listen, since he feared his least movement might betray him. Next he secured his pack, and was ready for flight.

Encumbered by his belongings, but with no mind to sacrifice them, he stepped out upon the shed and made his way down the slant of the roof to the eaves. He tossed his bundle to the ground and going down on his knees lowered his rifle, letting the muzzle fall lightly against the side of the shed as it left his hand, then he lay flat on his stomach and, feet first, wriggled out into space. When he could no longer preserve his balance, he gave himself a shove away from the eaves and dropped clear of the building.

As he recovered himself he was sure he heard a door open and close, and threw himself prone on the ground, where the black shadow cast by the tavern hid him. At the same moment two dark figures came from about a corner of the building. He could just distinguish that they carried some heavy burden between them, and that they staggered as they moved.

They passed out of sight, and breathless and palsied, Hannibal crept about a corner of the tavern. He must be sure!

Presently he heard a distant sound—a splash—surely it was a splash! A little later the men came up the lane, to disappear in the direction of the tavern. Hannibal peered after them. His very terrors, while they wrenched and tortured him, gave him a desperate kind of courage. As the gloom hid the two men, he started forward again. He reached the end of the cornfield, climbed a fence, and entered a deadening of timber. In the long wet grass he found where the men had dragged their burden. He reached down and swept his hand to and fro—once—twice—the third time his little palm came away red and discolored.

There was the first pale premonition of dawn in the sky, and as he hurried on the light grew, and the black trunks of trees detached themselves from the white mist that filled the woods and which the dawn made visible. There was light enough for him to see that he was following the trail left by the men. He emerged upon the banks of the Elk river, white like the woods with its ghostly night sweat.

The dull beat of the child's heart quickened as he gazed out on the swift current that was hurrying on with its dreadful secret. Then the links the emblems of the order, and proud that he was associated with a fraternal society founded on imperishable rocks, an institution that has grown from a membership of only five to nearly 2,000,000 since 1819 and distributes nearly $5,000,000 annually for the relief of those sick or in distress.

The impression made by Patriarch Garrett will remain long after the eloquent words have been forgotten.

Grand Patriarch Geo. M. Rewal, arriving late, was next introduced, and gave an able and clear statement of the work being done in Ohio in encampment circles. Several encampments were named that have increased their membership from 20 to 50 per cent and a few as high as 100 per cent, by following closely the grand patriarch's instructions.

All present were then conducted to the banquet room, where the refreshment committee took charge of affairs. Here the gray-haired veteran of Odd Fellowship sat at the table with the youth, the interest of the aged brother not in the least dimmed by the effect of time, and the young man eager to learn more, that he might be of greater service in the great and good work. In this progressive age the one thing for each Odd Fellow is education—read the literature of the order.

At a late hour all departed, having spent a pleasant and highly profitable evening. Grand Patriarch Geo. M. Rewal and Grand Senior Warden John C. L. Pugh were the guests on Monday evening and Tuesday of Representative to the Grand Encampment Louis Spees, who is behind the grand officers but little if any, in his great interest in the good of the order.

Newark Lodge, No. 13, met in regular session last Thursday evening, with a good attendance. The Esquire rank was conferred upon one candidate in the usual impressive form. Next Thursday evening the Page rank will be conferred.

Modern Woodmen.

Cedar Camp, No. 4727, met in regular session Monday night, with a good attendance. One applicant for membership was elected.

Neighbor Charles Reid was reported very sick at his home in Cedar street.

Monday night, Feb. 26, the Camp will hold another open meeting and will have a short program and then turn the meeting over to the dancers.

This meeting is for Modern Woodmen and their immediate families, the Royal Neighbors and their immediate families and the lady or gentleman escort of the member of either society.

Each member of the order is requested to read the March number of the Modern Woodmen, as it contains everything that was done at the head camp held in Chicago in January. It also contains all the new rates and options that are offered to members. All members have until Jan. 1, 1913, to carefully investigate all the plans and options, and the present rate will continue until that time.

Remember the open meeting next Monday and come and have a good time.

Knights of the Maccabees.

On account of the inclemency of the weather Wednesday evening, Octagon Tent, No. 132, did not have a very large attendance of the members. The R. K. has a number of sick claims to pass on. The officers and sick committee are requested to meet at the office Saturday night at 8 o'clock. There will be work in the first degree at the next review, March 6.

Reliable Home Treatment

FOR WHISKEY AND BEER HABIT

The ORRINE treatment will completely and absolutely destroy the desire or craving for whiskey, beer and other intoxicants if taken according to directions. It is a simple and efficient home treatment. No detention from work or business; no publicity; no sanitarium expense. ORRINE is prepared in two forms: No. 1, a powder, tasteless and colorless, can be given secretly in food or drink. ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to cure themselves. ORRINE costs only $1.00. After a trial you fail to get any benefit from ORRINE, your money will be refunded.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Treatment of Boils.
A German authority recommends for the relief of a boil the application of concentric rings of collodion by means of a brush,
the inflamed point to be left untouched. (The surface of this center should be as large as a dime.
The painting with collodion is renewed several times a day, the area of the central surface being gradually reduced. The circular pressure causes the center of the boil to become more pointed, and at the end of two or three days a yellowish eminence appears,
which breaks and allows the
"core" to escape.

That "tired feeling" is going to be exterminated. The Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, in co-operation with nine States has treated 140,000 persons for hook worm.

Alaska has gone into the Trust-busting business. Four transportation companies and sixteen of their officers have been indicted at Juneau for alleged violations of the Sherman law.

Americans consumed 7,670,000,000 pounds of sugar last year. The American sweet tooth must have the capacity of a mammoth's tusk.

Blood Humors

Commonly cause pimples, boils, hives, eczema or salt rheum, or some other form of eruption; but sometimes they exist in the system, indicated by feelings of weakness, languor, loss of appetite, or general debility, without causing any breaking out.
They are expelled and the whole system is renovated, strengthened and toned by

A BIG DIFFERENCE.

"Millions for defense; not one cent for tribute."
The American Woolen trust spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in magazine advertising, the purpose of which was to "educate" the people into seeing the justice of Schedule "K,"
and the way it is making the trust its millions.
And then, when the workers in the mills objected to a cut of a few cents a week in their wages, the trust employed an army of guards to protect its mills. When the state shortened the hours of labor, wages, of course, had to come down, for of course that patriotic company could not pay 23 cents per week to its operatives in order that they might have shorter hours and still get the same old $6 a week.

The campaign is going to be as refined as a pink tea. Champ Clark's manager has left cards at all other headquarters that have been opened in Washington.

Is Harmon Progressive?

Is Governor Harmon Progressive?
The tax paying families of the state of Ohio have had their taxes reduced from 25 to 50 per cent under him, and they would answer that query with a ringing "yes."

The Roosevelt Fetish.

(Philadelphia Record.)
"The Record" finds it easy to agree with ex-President Roosevelt when he says: "We should hold the judiciary in all respect; but it is both absurd and degrading to make a fetish of a Judge or of any one else."
It is most absurd, for instance, to make a fetish of Roosevelt, any Judge, or any man who has served two terms as President of the United States—at least, while he is yet in the flesh. But the Roosevelt boomers are attempting to make a fetish out of Theodore. The very things they are so quick to condemn in others are worth commending
if "Teddy" is the guilty party.

The Administration machine is working with its accustomed precision; the President has the Georgia delegates.

If Taft is a paranoiac and Roosevelt is a neurotic the only safety for the country lies in the election of a Democrat.

General Washington's views regarding a third term were loudly applauded in the House of Representatives on Thursday. The country deplored them when the General uttered them 116 years ago but it has approved them on all later occasions.

A Progressive Utterance.

"It is the very essence of Democracy to put the government back into the hands of the people and let them decide whom they want for United States senator," Governor Judson Harmon made this statement to a group of reactionaries of the Ohio general assembly when they came to him and spoke against a pending bill embodying the Oregon plan of electing United States senators by direct vote. Governor Harmon's espousal of that measure forced it through the Ohio legislature, despite powerful opposition.

According to the provisional Constitution of the Chinese Republic adopted by the Nanking junta, a National Assembly is to be elected, to consist of five members from each of the 19 provinces and also from Tibet and Mongolia. It is evident that the declaration of independence of Mongolia, so quickly seized upon by Russia as a pretext for the establishment of a protectorate, will not go unchallenged.
The Chinese Republic is not disposed to concede anything, and will insist upon territorial integrity within the limits of the defunct Chinese Empire.
Even Manchuria will probably be held as against both Japan and Russia. The national spirit of China is beginning to assert itself.

THE CHRONIC PATRIOT.

One day my neighbors came to me
and stopped a while to chew the rag, and said I really must agree to save the country and the flag. A man like me would elevate the government, to beat the band; so I became a candidate and galloped up and down the land.
One day an adventure came to pass.
I earned my grub by honest toil; with proud stride I moved the grass, and pushed a plowshare through the soil.
Throughout a long campaign I yelled,
and won the office I desired; and since a public trust I held, all honest labor makes me tired. I train with all those hungry chaps who bleed and die the Greatness in Victory and Defeat

By Former United States Senator WILLIAM E. MASON

Be neither swelled nor puffed up by wealth and honors that in the loss thereof you may not shrink. —John the Unafraid.

IN a long life of association with great men and small, I have found that the great man was great in all conditions of life. I have seen great men in the hour of defeat and in the hour of victory. I have seen small men in both conditions. I recall one man of wealth who was loud of dress and voice, who when given a great office, became louder in both, and more tenacious of his "official" rights. In his loss of both wealth and power, he seemed to shrink and, to so perceptibly sour, that life became a burden to himself and to his friends. Before his loss he was an object of ridicule and after it an object of pity.

One of the men I knew well, who never changed either his manner or disposition, in victory or defeat, was General John A. Logan. He was as simple in the senate as he was out of it, and as great out as he was in the senate. After he was defeated for vice-president, an old friend said to him: "General Logan, you seem just the same, just as independent as you were before election; you ain't shrunk a bit." To which he replied: "I hope I am the same.
If an office don't swell a man, he can lose it without shrinking."

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

I went to the theater with pop and ma last nite. They took me because they didn't have to pay for me, awn akcount of me not being big enuff to pay for. But I gess they wont take me agen in a hurry awn rite, because ma sed I was moar trubbl than 50 prices of admissins, and pop sed I didn't have any moar ideo of how to act in a theater than a bull in a chiner shop did.

Enyhow, I got dressed kwicker than wat they did.
For the sake of speed and akcurasy, pop sed to ma, be redly in time to-nite. The last time I took you to the theater, he sed, you took so lawing to put youre hat awn we missed the missed the hole first act.

So ma put her hat awn in about 15
minits, wich is pritty kwick for me, but I dont see why she takes so much trubbl about it enyway. awn akcount of having to take it rite awn agen as soon as we get to the theater. But the lady in frunt of us, wich had a grate big hat full of fethirs and things, didn't take hers awn wen the musick startid.

If the lady in frunt of me dont take her hat awn, ma, I sed, I wont be abil to see enything but fethirs wen the kertin goz up. You took yures awn, why dont she take hers awn, I sed.
How can pepil look at it if she takes it awf, sed ma, pritty lowd, konsidering the lady was rite in frunt of us.

But the lady didn't take it awf, so I had to hold the fethirs apart with my hands and look throo them wen the kertin went up. Ony wunts, wen the man awn the stage with the black mustash pulled out his revolvir and shot it "wice, bang, bang, I got so excited I pulled wun of the fethirs rite
out. I gess it coodent of bin in verrry time.

The lady in frunt didn't feel it, enyway, and then the man with the black mustash shot his pistil agen, and I pulled anothir fethir out, and the lady in frunt didn't feel that eithir.
Wen both fethirs was out I cood see fine. Then the lady in frunt felt to see weather her hat was awn strate, and way ma daz weather its crookid or not, and she felt the fethir wasent
there, and she terned eround kwick and saw ware they was, me having them in my hand.

Madum, sed the lady to ma, because she didn't see no naim, that bay has rooined my hat.

Then ma saw the fethirs and told me she wood speek to me and told the lady she was offfil sorry, but she didn't look verrry sorry. And awn the way hearn I told pop I served the lady rite, because shi awt to of took her hat awn in the first place.

Enyhow, I kept the fethirs.

EVERYONE NEEDS IT

Erman & Son are Having a Wonderful Sale of Thompson's Barosma, the Mighty Kidney and Liver Specific.

And no wonder, when he offers to refund your money if it doesn't cure any disease of the kidneys, liver, or bladder, backache, sideache, nervousness or any weakness of the kidneys.
But Thompson's Barosma has made so many almost miraculous cures that Erman & Son is pretty certain not to have any returns.
Here are a few instances:
Frank K. Sturges, Sturtevant, Crawford County, Pa., was cured of Bright's disease six years ago and only took six bottles. He has had no bad symptoms since.

"I had kidney trouble and enlargement of the liver and spleen. I took Thompson's Barosma. The first bottle reduced the measurement around my stomach from 45 to 36 inches, and several bottles completely cured me."—M. S. Langworthy, Tryonville, Pa.

After suffering the terrible agony of rheumatism for ten years, being compelled to use crutches, J. N.
Dunn, Troy Center, Pa., after all hope had left him, and he had no faith in any remedy, took six bottles of Thompson's Barosma, threw away his crutches and went to work for the first time in ten years.

These statements are absolutely true, and the Thompson Medical Co., Titusville, Pa., will prove it. Then why should anyone suffer in the face of such facts? How can they suffer when Erman & Son guarantee to refund the money if a cure is not effected? Thompson's Barosma, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

NO TRUTH IN RUMOR OF A CONSOLIDATION

Fletcher S. Scott denies the rumor that overtures have been made by the Armour Company of Chicago to purchase the local Howell Packing Company. Mr. Scott states that the rumor probably originated from a public stenographer whom he had employed to attend to some private correspondence. Mr. W. S. Kelch of Chicago, of the Armour Company was in the city Wednesday on business connected with the fertilizer department of the Howell company but the matter of purchasing the Howell plant was not even touched upon.
The Howell concern is doing a thriving business and the stockholders are perfectly satisfied to continue the present organization.

TAXATION

Will your taxes be heavy this spring? If so, why not invest your surplus in a good, non-taxable security? Are you content with the small income you are receiving? Do you must needs pay taxes on it? Don't you think that a 6 per cent, non-taxable investment would suit your needs better. If all of this reads well, we would impress upon your mind that the first thing you should look for is security. You will find upon investigation that we take no chances when we purchase the securities we offer. Safety of principal is our first consideration, yield and marketability taking second place.

SUFFERED EIGHT YEARS RESTORED BY PERUNA.

MRS. MARY S. FENNESSEY.

AS MANY THOUSAND PEOPLE SUFFER FROM CATARRH OF HEAD
IN WINTER, MRS. FENNESSEY'S PERMANENT RECOVERY
SHOULD CREATE GREAT PUBLIC INTEREST.

Mrs. Mary S. Fennessey, Lake Benton, Minnesota, writes: "I was afflicted with a bad case of catarrh in the head, and was unable to breathe through my nose for eight years. Six bottles of Peruna cured me entirely and I have not been bothered with catarrh since."

A Helpless Invalid.

Mrs. Annie Spaine, Gainesville, Ark., writes: "I was helpless in bed for eight months, and part of the time would not have weighed over sixty pounds. Food would do me no good.
"I had catarrh of the head and stomach and internal catarrh, and also had heart trouble so bad I could not bear any one to talk in the room where I was. The doctors and everybody that saw me said I would not get well. But God saw fit to spare me and sent relief through your wonderful medicine, Peruna."

He Won't Limp Now.

No more limping for Tom Moore of Cochran, Ga. "I had a bad sore

SOCIETY

The Otterbein University Summer School number of February, 1912, published by the University Summer School faculty, has the following to say regarding Miss Vida Schauck, of this city:

"Miss Vida Schauck has accepted the chair of public school of music and voice. Miss Schauck is a graduate of the Newark public schools, and she is also a graduate of Otterbein University. She has been very successful as a private tutor, both instrumental and vocal, the same being appreciated by the faculty of Otterbein University by placing her on their staff. Miss Schauck will continue her private work at Newark by appointment on certain days."

The Rosebud Embroidery club was entertained on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer Camp in Leroy street. The hours were given over to needlework and a delicious course luncheon was served. The club will hold its annual banquet at the home of Mrs. Ollie Irwin in East Main street on Wednesday afternoon, March 13.

Mrs. J. P. Lamb and daughter, Mrs. K. F. Schultz, delightfully entertained a few friends February 22 at the home of the former in North Fourth street. The Lamb home was prettily arranged with flags, hatchets, and decorations in the National colors. The little misses Mildred Parks and Helen Stone proved efficient aids in the upper rooms, presenting each guest with a dainty favor in keeping with the day. Punch was dispensed during the afternoon from the dining room. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in a progressive game at the close of an interesting contest the trophies were awarded Mrs. E. L. Woodward, Mrs. C. F. Parks and Mrs. B. Balzer, after which a course luncheon was served. The guests were: Mesdames S. D. Johnson, C. F. Parks, W. E. Stone Jr., F. R. Joyce, J. B. Burch, B. Balzer, Milton Downey, Henry Wilkin, Wm.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

Is Popularity an Unmixed Good?

MIRIAM is the most popular girl in her set," said a young matron. "She certainly is," said another of the crowd of young women who were discussing Miriam. "And she deserves to be. She's adorably pretty, dresses exquisitely, and is so lovable and charming and sunny-tempered, that I don't wonder every one is figuratively at her feet."

"You should have seen the gifts she received Christmas. I couldn't begin to tell you the number of handsome things; and in addition, fifty pounds of candy from those on the fringe of her acquaintance. She could have set up a confectionery shop."

"And it doesn't turn her head a bit, does it?"

"No, it doesn't."

"There's a side to Miriam, however," spoke up another, "that's worth thinking about. It's not our grapes on my part, for I am very fond of Miriam. But now and then, I see little straws of character, that make me wonder just which way the wind would blow, if sometime a tornado came along. I often wonder if popularity is an unmixed good for a girl."

"When Miriam's father died," this speaker went on, "as we all know, there wasn't quite the fortune the family expected; so Miriam decided she must do something, and as you are all aware, got that position she has in Blank's big publishing house. All her family and friends thought it awfully plucky of her, and her stock went up higher than ever."

"At Blank's, everybody immediately prostrated themselves before her as elsewhere, and she is the joy and pet of the staff. But she really does very little work. She airily writes one or two little things a day, and then the rest of the time she dispenses sunshine. Nobody cares. They all like her so much they trot around and do her work, and fairly fight for the privilege. Even the office boys adore her, and count it the event of their lives to get chance to walk home with her at night. At five o'clock she has tea in her office, and the staff drop in. She has a regular little tea service down there, and it is quite charming, sort of English, you know. And Blank's is so different from most places, and Miriam is so altogether charming that nothing is said."

"I'm not saying all this in any mean way, but I am just wondering how it will work out. Miriam is lovely and sweet and unselfish,—at least that is the way it seems. If any of the other ladies there are blue, the first thing the despondent one knows, a great bunch of violets or sweet peas, or some other flower is laid on her desk. I believe a girl should be just as Miriam is, sweet and charming and thoughtful and altogether adorable, and that every one should worship at her shrine. That's the right of girlhood. But—"

The speaker paused for breath.

"Her mother took apartments," she went on, "and is doing the house-keeping, though she never in her life did anything of the kind before. There are a couple of younger children, and so Miriam's mother finds her inexperienced hands rather full. But Miriam is looked upon as the martyr. It is 'Poor Miriam! She has to work,' and so when she returns from her office she is waited upon as a queen. They fuss over her and pet her, for her way here is quite as unquestioned as elsewhere. She never does one earthly thing in that house. Every one there feels she must do all she can to make up for the hardship poor Miriam endures at work."

"Miriam doesn't think she is selfish in accepting this. She never thinks about it at all. And I don't know that she is selfish."

"But the thing I am thinking about is, suppose some catastrophe or some test did come, will this sort of life develop the ability to rise above misfortune, or will it weaken her moral fibre, so that she will succumb and take the really selfish or really weak course. I am just wondering."

Barbara Boyd.

THE NEW COOLIE HAT

This is another "current events" fashion for which the Chinese revolution is responsible. It is a smart shade hat without a crown, ideal for the warm weather, the head size being formed by a bandeau under the brim covered with flowers.

Hughes, Edward Kelley, N. E. Vanatta, G. M. Jones, W. M. Shamp, Cochran, E. S. Woodward, C. C. Bowman, Alva Denman, John Coon, Guy Huffman, the Misses Mabel Hughes, Hazel Coon, Kathryn Stottler, Helen Stone, Mildred Parks, Master John Langdon Schultz and the hostess.

Among one of the enjoyable events of the week was a surprise given on Monday, February 22, at their home in West Main street, reminding them of their marriage eighteen years ago. The surprise was completely arranged. About forty of the neighbors and friends gathered at the home, marched in and took possession of the Shide residence. After a few hours spent in games and social conversation, which were the amusements of the evening, a dainty luncheon was served.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John Embrey and son Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Henry and daughters Marie, Mabel and Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Stover and son Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. James Heft and daughter Geneva, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Stoffer and daughters Beatrice, Freeda, and Grace and son Earl, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Newkirk and daughter Dorothy and son John, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barger and son Earl, Mrs. Morris Embrey and daughters Hazel and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. and two sons, Mr. Robert Lumm, Miss Neva Bomgardner and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shide and son Richard.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church of Brownsville met at the home of Mrs. Mafling Mack on February 22 and a delightful time was enjoyed by all. The meeting was opened by the vice president, by singing the patriotic hymn "America," and the repeating the Lord's Prayer in concert. The roll call was responded to by each by a verse of Scripture. A fine program was rendered, suitable to the day, consisting of songs, recitations and select readings. Also a paper by Mrs. Lizzie Coe, subject, "The Keeping of Home Anniversaries" was read. At four o'clock an appetizing dinner was served, each guest wearing the favor, a souvenir hatchet.

The following members were present: Mesdames Sarah Uffner, Zoa Powers, Lettie Guidice, Laura Morrison, Maud Orr, Jane McMaster, Dora Kreager, Lizzie Coe, Julia Priest, Minerva McMaster, Minnie Mack. The invited guests were Misses Mildred Hunt, Mabelle McMaster, Coia Brown, Belle Brown and Elhel Kreager, Mrs. Lulu Caldwell, Mrs. Mary Priest and Mrs. Myrtle Uffner and Master Raymond Mack.

The Review club which had under consideration for several days the idea of interesting the women of Newark in civic work issued a call this week to the members of organizations in the city for an informal meeting to discuss such matters. The call was sent out for a meeting on Friday afternoon in the Public Library and as the affair was merely an experiment the instigators were surprised at the large representation of women present.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. William Kellenberger, in the absence of the president of the Review club, and she gave an explanatory little talk telling of many things which might be done and suggesting that it would be desirable to co-operate with the city's organization of men, and follow up suggestions made by them.

A temporary organization was then formed, Mrs. Kellenberger being elected president and Mrs. C. H. Spencer secretary. These officers will merely hold over until the next meeting. The suggestion for endeavor which came the nearest to assuming form was that for preparing for a general clean-up of the city.

It was decided to hold a meeting of the women in each of the different districts of the city, taking in the east, west, north, south and central divisions. These divisions will be temporarily organized after which a general meeting will be held.

While "Clean-up Day" will be given first consideration, as the organization matures and becomes perfected other matters pertaining to the best interests of the city will be taken up.

The D. S. C. was entertained at the home of Miss Helen Talbot this afternoon. The afternoon was pleasantly spent with the needles, and at half past five, a dainty luncheon was served the following members: Misses Mary Prior, Nellie Gorman, Grace Stasel, Margaret Bradley, Eva Winters, Anna Callan, Goldie Johnson, Jennetta Talbot, and the hostess.

Messrs. Clarence R. Miller and Henry Gee, assisted by Mrs. R. F. Miller and Miss Isabelle Miller entertained about thirty of their friends at the Miller home in North Fourth street on Thursday evening. The hours were merrily spent in games, music and dancing. Dainty refreshments were served the guests.

Mrs. W. D. Fulton entertained with a tea on Friday afternoon at her West Church street home for the members of the Missionary society of the Secand Presbyterian church and the ladies of the congregation. The home was prettily arranged with flowers and assisting Mrs. Fulton in receiving her guests were Mrs. John Kerenith, Mrs. Charles Ward, Mrs. M. E. Edmiston, Mrs. T. A. Cosgrove, Miss Bessie Kelly, Miss Mary Miller and Miss Anne Davis.

A program of music, recitations and missionary talks was given and assisting with the program was Miss Anne Davis, Mrs. W. W. Gard and little Miss Elizabeth East.

About ninety guests called during the afternoon and delicious and dainty refreshments were served.

One of the most enjoyable events of the week was a surprise party given by the members of the Twilight club on the night of Washington's birthday at the home of Rev. Mr. Lucas in James street. The evening was spent in games and an old fashioned taffy pulling. Those present wore costumes suitable for the occasion. One of the features of the evening was the marriage of Mrs. Martha Curtis and George Washington. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Mr. Lucas. A most enjoyable time was had by all present.

Those present were: Misses Sarah Barroway, Laura Blank, Lucille Frisole, Blanch McMurty, Ruth Daily, Osa Clark, Charlotte Raymond, Mary Crook, Nellie Baird, Lena Anderson, Mrs. Baird, Mrs. Frisole, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Jenkins, Edith Jenkins, Dwight Jenkins.

The Kappa Kappa sorority of Granville entertained with a Washington banquet on Friday evening.

The Colonial Sewing circle was entertained at the home of Mrs. C. O. Irwin in Buena Vista street on Friday afternoon. A dainty two course luncheon was served the members and following guests: Mrs. John Hart, Miss Frank Brown, Miss Mary Root of New Lexington and Miss Ruth Hunt. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Kemp in Bowers avenue on March 8.

One of the great events in college life at Denison University, Granville, is the annual Washington banquet, given by the members of the senior class of the institution. For some time past plans have been making for the function which was held on Friday night in the dining room of Shepardson college. The large room was handsomely decorated with flowers and plants, and at the north end of the room was a portrait of George Washington, with the American flag as a background. The fire place was banked with palms. Bright red tapers placed on the tables were lighted and shed their soft light on the scene. The popular colors were red and green, while smilax and crimson carnations were artistically arranged on the tables. The menu cards which were very dainty, also contained the program of toasts. They were tied with red and gray ribbon, the colors of the class, and were placed at the plate of each guest. Splendid music was furnished during the evening by Marsh's orchestra. At the conclusion of the banquet Mr. Max B. Norpell, president of the class of 1912, as toastmaster, called the assembly to order and toasts were responded to as follows:

"Unconscious Mummies"—Victor H. Hoppe, '09.

"Ties That Bind"—Fred E. Wolf, '12.

Owing to the absence of Judge O. B. Brown, Mr. Jones of Columbus responded to a toast.

"George"—by "George"—George F. Finmie, '13.

"College Spirit"—William H. Johnson, '05.

The affair was pronounced by all who attended it as being one of the most successful ever given, due largely to the splendid work of the committee, which consisted of: Stuart McClelland, W. Henry Cutler, A. A. Schawwaker, D. J. Tigh, Ivan Tannehill, Julia Moore, Edith Philbrook, Edna Edwards, Cecil Shreve, Ada Ellis and Karl Frisch, chairman.

The Thursday Afternoon Pedro club met this week at the home of Mrs. Joseph Kirk, 91 Clinton street. Mrs. C. L. V. Holtz won first prize, Mrs. Williams won the guest's prize, and Mrs. Kirk received the hostess' prize. The guests of the club were Mrs. Robert Legg, Mrs. Frank Peck, Mrs. Williams and Miss Barger. The club will meet at the home of Mrs. C. L. V. Holtz on next club day.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, 2618 Hodiomount avenue, St. Louis, Mo., announce the marriage of their daughter Agnes Marie to Mr. Joseph Hardin, Tuesday morning, February 20th, 1912. No. Dame church, St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Hardin will be at home after April 7th at 3616 Hartford street, St. Louis, Mo.

Quite a number of the friends and neighbors of P. W. Brubaker in State street gave him an agreeable surprise Thursday evening when they met to break the monotony of loneliness during the absence of his wife, who is spending the winter in Clearwater, Florida. The evening was spent in music and social conversation.

HOFFAN-DEBEVOISE.

A. F. Hoffman and Miss Martha J. Debevoise were married last Wednesday night. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Hollei at the home in East Main street. At the conclusion of the ceremony a most delicious supper was served to the following named guests: J. H. Lanning and wife, George Debevoise and wife, Blake Lanning and wife, Mildred Lanning, Lillian Lanning, Earl Lanning, Joseph Lanning, Wm. Lanning, John Debevoise, Jack Spellman. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman have the best wishes of all their friends.

The newly married couple took a honeymoon trip to Cincinnati.

BASKET AND PICTURE SALE

The attraction of the Newark Trust—which building is our chief joy and pride—is enhanced these days by the delicious odor of sweet grass, emanating from the Mezzanine room, where hundreds of Indian baskets are on display.

These were collected by Mr. Geo. Franklin, who summers in Northern Michigan, over which the Indian travels with his wares.

These artistic pieces of handwork range in price from ten cents to two dollars. Together with these a great variety of colored plates are exhibited illustrating the story of Hiawatha as played by the Indians in the north country.

These have a great educational value and should be seen by all High School pupils and those of the grades. The club women of the city have the handling of both baskets and pictures, the proceeds of which go to the public library. The new children's room now being added, must be fully equipped to meet the growing demand of our little people. So in purchasing a basket or picture you not only secure a work of art, but aid in the work in which all of Newark is so vitally interested.

This sale will continue for three weeks, but should be visited at once in order to make a selection from the full stock.

TO GIVE AWAY A LIVE BOVINE AT AUDITORIUM

An item that will probably create interest in Newark is the fact that during the stay of the Keyes Stock company here next week a cow will be given away on Friday evening at the Auditorium theatre. The bovine was seen in the Field Minstrel parade this morning.

The members of the board of public service, met Thursday night and organized by the election of the following officers: President Burton Case; secretary, A. L. Norris; Joseph Rhoads was elected superintendent of the water works, and Harry Darsham was elected assistant engineer.

$3.50 RECIPE FREE, FOR WEAK KIDNEYS.

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.
Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Backs.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine, the sore head and the back-of-the-head aches; the stinging and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; natural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. C. Robinson, 1429 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

GRANVILLE

Granville, Feb. 24.—Some of the farmers are getting together to decide how they are going to carry their stock over the remaining winter weeks. Hay is very scarce. Corn is not so scarce, but the price is high and the farmer does not like to feed grain when he can get fine prices for it. It is thought by prominent dealers in grain and hay that the farmers will be able to get over the remainder of the winter without selling any of their stock. The farmers as a whole are of the opinion that we will have an early spring, and if this proves true it will materially help the owners of large numbers of cattle, as they can be turned out to eat the spring grass, and this will lessen the demand for fodder and grain.

At the Methodist church Sunday the services will be conducted by the Rev. A. J. Holt, the pastor. Sunday school will be held at 11 o'clock a. m. Epworth League at 6 p. m. The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Rock that is Higher than I." Evening sermon, "Christ Our Passover." All are welcome to attend these services.

Dr. Hamilton Holt, of the New York Independent, is to lecture in the Baptist church this evening, February 24, on the subject, "The Federation of the World." Dr. Holt is making a tour of the colleges presenting this peace message. Besides being an editor he is a master orator and will be well worth hearing.

Dr. R. S. Colwell was called to New England on account of the serious illness of one of his relatives.

The Pioneer Mending Bee will meet with Mrs. Henry Jones, at her home on North Pearl street on Thursday, February 29.

The many friends of Mrs. Sarah Myers will be glad to learn that she is now recovering from her recent severe illness which has continued since the first of the year. Mrs. Myers is feeling better in every way and it is the wish of all her friends that she may soon be restored to complete recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Grant of Uhrichsville, O., who have been visiting relatives and friends in Granville and vicinity during the past week, left for their home Saturday morning.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union held a very interesting and profitable meeting at the home of Mrs. John Thomas on Friday afternoon. There were quite a number of the ladies out.

FIRST APPLICATION DARKENS THE HAIR

A Simple Remedy Gives Color, Strength and Beauty to the Hair.

You don't have to have gray hair or faded hair if you don't want to. Why look old or unattractive? If your hair is gray or faded, you can change it easily, quickly and effectively by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. Apply a little tonight, and in the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the results from a single application. The gray hairs will be less conspicuous, and after a few more applications will be restored to natural color.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur also quickly removes dandruff, leaves the scalp clean and healthy, and promotes the growth of the hair. It is a clean wholesome dressing which may be used at any time with perfect safety.

Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and see how quickly it will restore the youthful color and beauty of your hair and forever end the nasty dandruff, hot, itchy scalp and falling hair. All druggists sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if you are not satisfied after fair trial. Frank D. Hall, 10 North Side Square.

TOURISTS ARRIVE IN "BULLDOG"

Are on 100,000 Mile Motor Trip—A Strenuous Tour of Motorists Through Mexico.

Dr. Charles G. Percival of New York City and George Brown, who are on a 100,000 mile tour in the Abbott-Detroit "Bulldog" motor car, arrived in Newark Friday afternoon from Columbus, reaching the city about 4 o'clock. After visiting the Advocate office and greeting the newspaper boys whom he met here on a former visit the car was housed for the night.

It was apparent that the car had a stormy passage from Columbus to Newark for it was mud splashed and ice-coated. It carries a complete camping outfit which is stowed away in the tonneau. This is used for emergency purposes in case the party is caught between towns and cannot secure hotel accommodations.

Since he visited Newark in December, 1910, Dr. Percival has toured Alaska in this car making the complete trip overland. He has advanced further north in this car than any other automobile has ever ventured before.

During the late Mexican revolution while the tourists were in that country they were attacked by bandits, and were interested spectators of several battles between the Federal troops and the insurgents. They have been gross all the American deserts and were lost for 48 hours without water in Mexico near the American border and were saved from death by a detachment of soldiers from Troop K of the 4th U. S. Cavalry, Capt. C. C. Farmer commanding. The soldiers were found by Dr. Percival after he had made a 22 mile walk across the desert without water in 120 degrees of heat and ankle deep sand. He made the 22 miles in ten hours. He rode back with the soldiers to the rescue of his companion, who would have perished but for their aid.

The car left for Zanesville Saturday morning where Dr. Percival and his companion spent a couple of hours. They will continue their journey Eastward expecting to land in Pittsburgh some time Sunday.

GAS COMPANY WILL SURRENDER LEASE ON GROUND

Board of Trade Making Effort To Have Old Artificial Gas Plant Cleaned Up.

A few months ago the Board of Trade made an effort to secure possession of the old artificial gas plant site near the B. & O. station, for a double purpose, viz: To remove the unsightly debris covering the ground in sight of every stranger passing through Newark on the steam roads and to do one of two things, (1) park the ground or (2) sell it for a factory site. At that time the Board of Trade had an opportunity to secure the construction there if a substantial building if the ground could be obtained for that purpose.

The Board of Trade was not at liberty to disclose the nature of the project which had been presented to the officers and for that reason the proposal to dispose of the land did not meet with the favor of the city council.

The effort to obtain the land for park purposes has been renewed, it now being too late to entertain the commercial proposition. The Board of Trade has a special committee in charge, consisting of Wm. M. Morgan, William C. Christian, J. H. Newton, Elmer Orr, John C. Brennan and W. D. Fulton.

This committee has taken the matter up informally with the city council and finds that the members, Director of Service McCarthy and City Solicitor Roderic Jones heartily favor the plan to clean up the premises and put the ground in slightly condition.

When the matter was first considered a committee approached the gas company, which holds a lease upon the ground, and received from Mr. Whitcomb, in Pittsburgh, a reply promising to turn the ground over to the Board of Trade and take up the outstanding bonds. Mr. K. C. Krick, special agent of the Logan Natural Gas Company, phoned to the Board of Trade from Columbus Saturday, saying that the company will be glad to surrender its interest in the ground, but that a few of the outstanding bonds have not as yet been located. Mr. Krick said the company would co-operate with the Board and the city and is glad to see that an effort is being made to clean up the site and make it into a park.

The gas company being willing to surrender its lease and the city councilmen being glad to have the debris removed and the site parked, it seems probable that the effort of the Board of Trade will be successful this spring.

WALNUT RIDGE.

Mr. and Mrs. Manford Van Winkle of Newark visited the former's parents of this place Sunday.

Mr. J. S. Van Winkle was a Newark caller Tuesday.

Howard Kidd called on C. P. Smith and family Sunday.

J. Shoults spent Wednesday night with George Pipes and family.

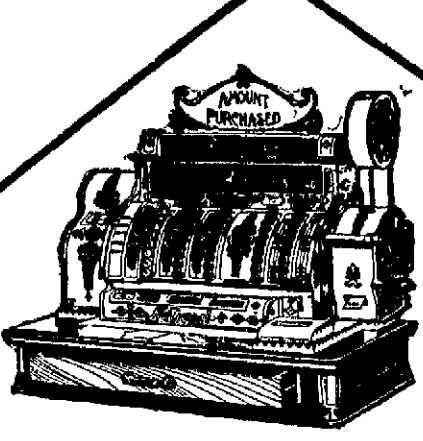

Samuel Mosholder called on Charles Cullison and John Frost Wednesday night.

The high winds Wednesday did quite a bit of damage in this vicinity. Especially to those who attended G. W. Monroy's trial at Newark. Some, when almost home, lost their hats. One individual, that misfortune always seems to follow, lost his hat just as he was leaving the city and would have been forced to have gone the remaining twenty miles home without a sky piece, if he had not accosted a belated urchin and gave him his only relic—a Beal penny—for his cap. When questioned upon the subject, he said it was rather difficult for him to have to part with his relic, and that he would rather be shot in the eye any other time.

We created the cash register industry.

We created the demand and after years of effort proved cash registers a business necessity.

There is 30 years of study and experience back of our product.

We developed the cash register business by studying the needs of merchants and building cash registers for all lines of business where money is handled and records kept.

The merit of our product has extended the cash register business to every civilized country in the world.

Improved organization, modern manufacturing buildings, improved machinery and trained employes have enabled us to meet the needs of over 1,000,000 merchants who are using National Cash Registers.

It will pay you to investigate how a National will benefit you.

Our facilities have always enabled us to guarantee to sell a better cash register for less money than any other concern in the world

NEWARK HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The next number of the High School lecture course will be given by Dr. H. N. Adams, on the subject "Grapes of Gold." The lecture will be given on Wednesday evening.

Wednesday afternoon patriotic programs were given by the pupils of each session room.

There was no school Thursday. In the evening many of the pupils attended the reception given by the Y. M. C. A. The boys' basketball team played Mt. Vernon and walloped them by the score of 28-30.

Two of the lady teachers of the Frazeyburg schools visited the High School Friday. Their names are Miss Clara Ault and Miss Nevada Mohallin.

Miss Sparks spent Thursday at Delaware visiting her sister who is a student there.

Mr. Barnes likewise spent Thursday at Delaware.

The Newark girls played East High last night while the boys' second team played Granville.

Supt. Addison L. Jones of West Chester, Pa., visited the High School last Friday. He was very well pleased with the equipment of the school and the work in general.

Supt. Hawkins gave a spelling test to the High School this week. The following named pupils made perfect marks: Quincy Cheadle, Ralph Porter, Mary Elizabeth Fuller, Glenn Wilson, Stella Cunningham, Clara Craig.

The new members of the Thalian Society were initiated Wednesday evening by the old members. All were dressed in Martha Washington costumes and had a most enjoyable evening.

Supt. J. E. Smith and M. C. Graham, both of Frazeyburg spent yesterday afternoon in the High School. Also Supt. George M. Strong, Granville, spent the afternoon visiting classes.

THE SCIENCE OF FARMING

ENGLISH MARKET FOR AMERICAN EGGS

BY CONSUL FELIX S. S. JOHNSON, Kingston, Canada.

THE first week in October 250 cases of Canadian eggs were forwarded to England, the first shipment in about two years. At one time Canadian shipments to England were very large; for instance, in 1901 over 231,500 cases were exported from Montreal. Since then the Canadian export trade in eggs with Great Britain has gradually decreased and a year or so ago ceased entirely. The decrease in shipments was due to the fact that eggs brought better prices in Canada than in England, owing to the increased home consumption and a falling off in production. However, the English market offers splendid opportunities not only for American eggs, but for poultry.

EGG PRODUCTION SUPERSTITIONS

IT is remarkable how people will hang on to old-time superstitions, and how many theories they have which they safely guard as "secrets." It was not long ago that the writer was told by a man that there never would be a poor hatch "if a horseshoe was placed in the bottom of the nest." He believed it, too, and said he tested the matter for years! Another wrote that he discovered a secret to increase egg production. He used about a half-dozen china eggs in each nest. The hens seeing such a large number of eggs at once determined to increase the pile, and accordingly added to it. He said the secret never failed! Another writes: "If have a real secret. Always set your hens in the full of the moon. It means a big hatch." As the moon gets full but once a month, the hen can hatch and start brooding her young before the next batch starts.

Another: "Hens become poor layers in houses that are painted red." Another: "Eggs will not hatch up well if they are laid by unmated hens. My mother says she cannot hatch up such eggs to a froth. My, my! What an influence we poultrymen have practiced all these years." Another: "Hens won't begin to lay until you mate them." That's news, indeed, but what on earth has started our hens to lay?

Another: "You can tell the sex of the egg by its shape, or rather its shell condition." He said he selected 200 rooster eggs and when they hatched there were but one pullet, and he was sure the egg producing it was a rooster. He also selected fifty pullet eggs which hatched some across a method that will help them on to success. Such methods, after being thoroughly tested, involve themselves into secrets. It is not unusual, however, to find that some one else, in another part of the country, has had the same ideas and is working along the same lines. A publishing firm sometimes advertises to pay a certain sum for real bona fide poultry secrets. The writer was delighted to be the judge. Fifty 500 replies were received, and of these nearly 300 referred to "a cure for cholera," "a cure for gapes," "methods for destroying lice," and "cure-alls for every known ailment." The text of the majority of their replies were ridiculous—even recommending "corrective salinities in the drinking water" for chickens afflicted with cholera.

CORN AND CLOVER ECONOMICAL

BASED on the average farm price of feeds for the last ten years, oats are worth on the farm $19.37 per ton and have a feeding value of $21.10; barley is worth $17.80 per ton and has a feeding value of $21.93; corn is worth $13.23 per ton and has a feeding value of $23.66. In other words, at the average farm price, $1 worth of feed in oats costs 92 cents, in barley 80 cents and in corn 66 cents. The feeding value is figured on the basis of bran at $20 per ton. On this same basis $1 worth of food nutrients could be supplied in clover hay for 49 cents, in fodder corn 57 cents and in timothy hay for 60 cents; in ensilage for 78 cents. In view of the above facts it is plain that a combination of corn and clover will make a most economical feed.

FEEDING YOUNG CHICKS

BY C. HICKS BARROW, Preston, Ind.

COMMENCING with the third day (forty-eight hours after the hatch is complete), we feed our baby chicks nutrum mash. This contains all the necessary ingredients to make them grow like grasshoppers up to eight weeks old. It is kept before them in pans all the time, and they thoroughly enjoy it. Two handfuls of a good standard chick scratch food is thrown in the litter (cut straw, two inches deep on floor) early in the morning, and again at noon and about an hour before sunset. This makes the little fellows work, thus giving them the needed exercise for quick growth. Fine charcoal and grit is kept in their little hoppers all the time, and last but not least, a plentiful supply of cool, clean, fresh water, in founts placed where they can get into it, is provided three times daily.

Fresh water is as essential to a young chick as milk is to a baby, and it is surprising how much the little fellows will consume. These weak ones, as they show up, are put into a pen by themselves and fed the same as the others; they soon develop and are able to join their hardy brothers and sisters. We raised 95 per cent of all chicks hatched this season, and find that this method simplifies a very difficult problem. White diarrhoea and other chick diseases so far are unknown to us on the farm.

This method of feeding is strictly followed for eight weeks, when the chicks are removed to the colony houses and fed as follows: We let them out early in the morning (if not raining), and make them hustle until 10 o'clock, when fresh mash is placed in the hoppers in each house. This mash is composed of 100 pounds bran, 100 pounds cornmeal, 100 pounds middlings, 50 pounds linseed meal and 15 pounds fine beef scraps. The mash is put in each hopper in a certain quantity, to be empty by sundown; otherwise the chicks will tackle it the first thing in the morning and be too full for much hustling.

One hour later we give them the final ration of the day, composed of equal parts of wheat, oats and cracked corn, placing in front of each house all they will eat up clean. The cracked corn should be free from meal and husks, or there will be considerable waste. We keep a five-gallon fount filled with clean fresh water, and charcoal and grit in basins on the floor, in each house all the time. If the weather is not clear we keep the birds housed, feeding six quarts of scratch feed (same as evening ration) in the litter, to induce the necessary exercise. When the chicks are also placed in each house to empty the green stuff they would get while on range. This method of feeding brings our pullets into laying in about five and a half months.

THE DRAFT HORSE

BY GEORGE P. GROUT, Minnesota College of Agriculture.

THE breeding of draft horses has come to be a very profitable adjunct to diversified farming, and at no time during the last fifteen or twenty years has the price been higher for good draft and heavy farm horses. While the automobile may, to a certain extent, have replaced the horse for city delivery, still the bulk of the farm work is done with horses, and prices for good stock are as high or higher than ever. There is not the demand for medium quality and light-weight horses that there used to be, but good, smooth draft and heavy farm horses are bringing good prices. There is little reason why the farmer should not continue to raise horses of this kind, since brood mares and stallions, too, for that matter, will produce stronger and better stock for having been kept steadily at work on the farm.

On the home farm we have raised some of the cleanest, best colts, and worked the mares right along. There are certain conditions under which it does not seem to be practical to put the breeding stock into harness, but on many farms these conditions are not met. Where a farmer must rely almost wholly on hired help to drive his teams it may not be practicable to put pure-bred stock into harness. If the farm boy shows an interest in horses, raise some good drafters. Put a good harness on them and tell the boy this is his team to work, and there will be no question about the care they will get. You will find the boy after a day's work out currying off the horses, making sure they are comfortable. I speak from experience and know that when these horses are offered for sale they will bring a good price.

ROOTS FOR LIVE STOCK

BY SUPERINTENDENT A. D. WILSON, Extension Division Minnesota College of Agriculture.

JUST as one enjoys eating an apple occasionally, especially during the winter, when less fruit and vegetables are used than during the summer, just so the live stock in the winter, when their rations consist largely of dry feed, need and appreciate some form of succulent food. There is very little added expense in supplying animals with a reasonable amount of succulent food, either in the form of roots or silage. For

ON THE LAWN

BY R. A. KIRKPATRICK, Extension Division Minnesota College of Agriculture.

WHEN the ground freezes the lawn should be mulched with several inches of barnyard manure. Avoid that which is largely bedding, if possible. The leachings during the winter and spring will stimulate a rapid and luxuriant growth, and this is one of the best features of the manure mulch in the fall. The manure mulch should also be applied to the hardy perennial borders and about the shrubbery. The tops of the herbaceous plants should be cut to within two or three inches of the ground and the mulch applied right over the crowns.

CO-OPERATION IN SELLING FRUIT

BY C. R. BARNES, Extension Division Minnesota College of Agriculture.

BY CO-OPERATIVE endeavor all difficulties may be overcome and fruit brought within the reach of consumers at prices which the multitude can afford, and yet high enough to yield good returns to the grower, is being demonstrated by the success attending the operations of the fruit growers' associations already organized.

Conspicuous among these is the California Fruit Growers' exchange, whose growth and methods of operation are described at length in the year book of the Department of Agriculture for 1910. From a small beginning twenty-three years ago, and through many educational experiences, it has grown to a mighty organization, representing 6,000 growers, divided among 100 or more local associations. It now handles 60 per cent of the citrus fruits grown in California, and handles it in such a way that both grower and consumer are benefited at the points of distribution are all practically eliminated, assuring a handsome return for his crop to each one of the associated growers. Similar but smaller associations, not connected with the exchange, handle along kindred lines about 25 per cent more of the California crop, leaving only 15 per cent to be marketed by individuals.

The success of these California organizations, in the face of transportation problems more difficult far than any to be faced in the middle west or east, since the fruit grown on one side of the continent had mostly to be marketed on the other side or in Europe, and must face the climatic risk of all latitudes, should make it apparent that if similar organizing ability should be applied to the marketing of Minnesota fruits, none of the waste and loss, of which so much has been heard this season, would much longer occur.

CORN CLUBS

BY O. M. OLSON, Extension Division Minnesota College of Agriculture.

The adaptability of corn as a grain and forage crop is fast gaining wide appreciation among our farmers. Each succeeding year proves more conclusively that corn is a safe crop for a large part of this state. Wherever failures have been met, they can be attributed to one or more of three causes, namely, growing too large a variety, using seed of poor vitality, and improper care during the growing season. Each of these is a condition that can easily be remedied if farmers of every community will get together and exchange ideas relative to their failures and successes.

To afford a means of accomplishing these ends and of making possible still greater things, the organization of a local corn club is recommended. An organization of this kind, whether it be among the boys and girls engaged in industrial contest work, or among adult corn growers, can be made to bring about a great many improvements in corn growing. With every club member supporting it in the right spirit, the club meetings should afford not only ample opportunity for an exchange of ideas and experiences, but also for framing definite plans for a broader study of corn growing. It should stimulate a friendly rivalry that is bound to bring benefits to all participating.

Without question, a good active corn club will arouse interest in every phase of corn culture, which should bring more and better corn per acre. To this end let us have a good corn club in at least every county in the corn growing section of our state.

VALUE OF EARTH WORMS

The little earth worm is a very valuable insect and should be spared whenever it is possible. By burrowing in the earth the earth worm brings up subsoil and mixes it with top soil, opens the particles and permits air, water and organic matter to enter, and this causes chemical and physical changes that produce plant food.

ENGLISH SOYA BEAN TRADE SLUMPS

BY CONSUL HOMER M. BRINGTON, Bristol.

THE annual statement of the Bristol docks committee expresses regret that the trade in soya beans from Manchuria that sprang up suddenly three years ago has had a distinct setback, there being a decrease of no less than 20,000 tons in the imports at Bristol. The oil extracted from these beans was exported in considerable quantities to various continental ports direct, and to the United States. To the latter country during the calendar year 1910 the value of the exports amounted to $285,150, while for the first nine months of 1911 they have amounted to only $155,557. The oil cake manufactured from the residue after the oil had been extracted was exported principally to Denmark. The decreased imports from Manchuria are said to be due to the high price of the beans and to the fact that only the first-grade beans are being exported, which has increased the price and checked the trade.

ORCHARD PROTECTION IN WINTER

BY R. A. KIRKPATRICK, Extension Division Minnesota College of Agriculture.

THERE is yet time to protect the orchard trees from mice. Clean away weeds and trash about the trees, and bank each one with a nice eight or ten inch cone of soil, free from trash. The work may be done with a spade or shovel. Take the soil from near the tree, and in the spring it should all be worked back into the hole thus made. To protect from rabbits, get a good shotgun, a good dog, and put a keen small boy with a bow trap and work just now. Catch and kill all the animals possible before winter closes in. Also wrap the trunks and larger branches with vetiver wrappings, swale hay, corn stalks, twine or paper. Avoid rat paper. This wrapping will have the added usefulness, at the same time, of protecting the vital parts of the tree from sunscald.

If snow has been customarily drifting in so that rabbits have eaten the tops of the trees, go back some 200 feet to the windward of the orchard and construct a temporary snow shed. This can be nicely done by driving stakes, putting on two wires, and hanging brush, cut from the timber, on them. Or a loose board fence, made from old lumber about the place, will serve efficiently.

If these suggestions are impracticable, as they will be in some locations, and if rabbits are numerous, the plan of trapping and killing, it will be best to plan to keep the tops above the snow covered with fresh, concentrated lime-sulphur wash. Poisoned corn may be used for the rabbits with perfect safety. Soak the kernels in a strychnine solution and place them out about the trees, taking them up in the morning before stock or poultry can get to them. The rabbits will die nearly as the bodies can be collected and burned.

"KEEP BOOKS" ON COWS THE successful stockman must know what each of his animals is doing each day. With the dairy herd it is comparatively easy to keep track of each day's record simply by weighing the milk each time the cows are milked. It requires but a fraction of a minute's time each milking, and enables one to know at once if for any reason one or more cows are falling off in their milk, and to remedy the cause before a serious loss has been sustained. Testing for butter-fat need not be done more than once or twice a month; but the milk should be weighed at each milking.

FARMERS MUST CO-OPERATE

OPERATE

THERE are three important reasons why the small independent farmer cannot get the best prices for his products. In the first place, he has but a small amount of any one thing to sell, and it makes very little difference to the dealer whether he gets his small business or not. In the second place, the dealer who buys his products must also buy from a number of other small farmers, with the result that what he gets is not a community, as a rule, but a mixed lot of goods, and he is not able to sell as much as in many instances the product of the individual farmer is worth.

KEEP STOCK COMFORTABLE

KEEP the stock comfortable. There is probably no term that signifies more regarding the condition in which stock should be kept than the term "comfortable," and if one bears this in mind and keeps his stock comfortable, that is, not hungry or cold, or excited or standing in an uncomfortable position, or sleeping in an uncomfortable bed—his returns will be satisfactory.

PURE-BREDS IN POULTRY

BY F. L. SNYDER, KENTUCKY.

SOME hundreds of years ago the original jungle fowl would lay about twenty-five eggs a year. By breeding, feeding, etc., this had been increased to eighty-five to one hundred and twenty-five about thirty or forty years ago, and now at the present time it is not uncommon for a hen to lay 300 eggs per year, and some few individuals have laid very near 300.

This should prove to those that doubt that poultry can be improved by selection and proper feeding. However, these results cannot be obtained by any "hit and miss" method, but by a careful selection of the best. A great many start buying poultry by buying eggs or stock from some good breeder, and because they say what they consider a high price they think that all the chicks hatched from those eggs or stock will be good. Then instead of selecting the best they use any of 25, with the result that in a few generations the stock soon deteriorates, and the party does not understand why.

Others are always looking for cheap stock, and they usually get cheap stock, although it is generally dead in the end. These latter are the ones who say there is nothing in poultry. In this world, if you want anything of value you must pay for it. You cannot get it for nothing, so if you want stock that will give good results you must pay a fair price for it. A hen or pullet that is laying now or about ready to lay is easily worth from $2.00 to $2.50, for if she only lays fifteen or twenty eggs per month for the next four months she will have paid for herself.

Can this be done in any other branch of live stock? I do not think so, yet some say there is nothing in poultry. The way some poultry is kept, and the kind of poultry kept, I am sure there is nothing made, but if good stock is kept in a proper way I know there is a fair profit in same.

VALUE OF FARM MANURE

BY CYRIL G. HOPKINS.

FARM manure always has been and probably always will be one of the most important and abundant materials for soil improvement. It is a necessary product on every farm and on stock farms a product which accumulates in very large amounts. If not used for soil improvement it becomes a worthless nuisance about the stable, whether in the city or in the country.

A conservative estimate places the annual production of farm manure in the United States at a billion tons. The actual agricultural value of fresh farm manure containing both the liquid and solid excrements is not less than $2 a ton, whether the value is measured in terms of plant food elements actually contained in the manure as determined by chemical analysis of the manure and the market values of the elements, or whether the value is measured by the actual increase in crop yields produced by the use of the manure on ordinary long cultivated soils.

PASTURING WHEAT FIELD

BY WALTER F. BROWN, Farm Specialist, Oxford, Ohio.

MANY farmers consider the tramping of land by cattle a great factor in compacting the soil. Where fields can be pastured before plowing, to what the double benefit is secured, of adding fertility in the form of the manure produced and compacting the soil. On virgin soils the practice is almost universal of pasturing the wheat itself while the plants are young. Experience, however, does not always justify this. It is an unwise thing, this is probably owing to the fact that cattle are kept in the field when it is too wet, and under these conditions both wheat and fields are injured. Taking into account, on the other hand, the fact that this practice is often worth a dollar an acre to the farmer as food for his stock, the slight of wheat need not be increased to make pasturing profitable. Spring pasturing seems less objectionable than fall, and many think it aids in reducing insect pests. Letters from twenty different Kansas farmers in regard to pasturing wheat show eighteen out of twenty in favor of it, and they estimate the value at from 50 cents to $2 an acre.

GRAIN FOR GROWING STOCK

IT IS NOT always the heaviest feeders who get the best results. Every animal requires certain nutrients that enable it to perform its best work. If these nutrients are not supplied in the proper proportion it means that the animal must consume and adjust large amounts of some of the elements that it can use in order to get enough of the others. Economical feeding requires that nutrients be supplied to animals in the proportion needed. As a rule farm feeds are lacking in protein. This is especially true this year, when there is a scarcity of clover hay. If one is feeding corn stalks or wild hay the farm grains must be carefully selected to meet the animal's needs for best work. This is especially true of dairy cows and young stock. When this form of roughage must be fed some such feed as bran, middlings or oil meal must form a reasonable proportion of the grain ration. In order that the protein supply may be maintained.

KEEP STOCK COMFORTABLE

KEEP the stock comfortable. There is probably no term that signifies more regarding the condition in which stock should be kept than the term "comfortable," and if one bears this in mind and keeps his stock comfortable, that is, not hungry or cold, or excited or standing in an uncomfortable position, or sleeping in an uncomfortable bed—his returns will be satisfactory.

If not used for soil improvement it becomes a worthless nuisance about the stable, whether in the city or in the country.

A conservative estimate places the annual production of farm manure in the United States at a billion tons. The actual agricultural value of fresh farm manure containing both the liquid and solid excrements is not less than $2 a ton, whether the value is measured in terms of plant food elements actually contained in the manure as determined by chemical analysis of the manure and the market values of the elements, or whether the value is measured by the actual increase in crop yields produced by the use of the manure on ordinary long cultivated soils.

PASTURING WHEAT FIELD

BY WALTER F. BROWN, Farm Specialist, Oxford, Ohio.

MANY farmers consider the tramping of land by cattle a great factor in compacting the soil. Where fields can be pastured before plowing, to what the double benefit is secured, of adding fertility in the form of the manure produced and compacting the soil. On virgin soils the practice is almost universal of pasturing the wheat itself while the plants are young. Experience, however, does not always justify this. It is an unwise thing, this is probably owing to the fact that cattle are kept in the field when it is too wet, and under these conditions both wheat and fields are injured. Taking into account, on the other hand, the fact that this practice is often worth a dollar an acre to the farmer as food for his stock, the slight of wheat need not be increased to make pasturing profitable. Spring pasturing seems less objectionable than fall, and many think it aids in reducing insect pests. Letters from twenty different Kansas farmers in regard to pasturing wheat show eighteen out of twenty in favor of it, and they estimate the value at from 50 cents to $2 an acre.

GRAIN FOR GROWING STOCK

IT IS NOT always the heaviest feeders who get the best results. Every animal requires certain nutrients that enable it to perform its best work. If these nutrients are not supplied in the proper proportion it means that the animal must consume and adjust large amounts of some of the elements that it can use in order to get enough of the others. Economical feeding requires that nutrients be supplied to animals in the proportion needed. As a rule farm feeds are lacking in protein. This is especially true this year, when there is a scarcity of clover hay. If one is feeding corn stalks or wild hay the farm grains must be carefully selected to meet the animal's needs for best work. This is especially true of dairy cows and young stock. When this form of roughage must be fed some such feed as bran, middlings or oil meal must form a reasonable proportion of the grain ration. In order that the protein supply may be maintained.

KEEP STOCK COMFORTABLE

KEEP the stock comfortable. There is probably no term that signifies more regarding the condition in which stock should be kept than the term "comfortable," and if one bears this in mind and keeps his stock comfortable, that is, not hungry or cold, or excited or standing in an uncomfortable position, or sleeping in an uncomfortable bed—his returns will be satisfactory.

ATTEND THE INSTITUTE

DO NOT fail to attend the institute held in your community. The institutes are for you. The men who speak at these institutes are practical farmers who have succeeded. PURE-BREDS IN POULTRY

BY F. L. SNYDER, KENTUCKY.

SOME hundreds of years ago the original jungle fowl would lay about twenty-five eggs a year. By breeding, feeding, etc., this had been increased to eighty-five to one hundred and twenty-five about thirty or forty years ago, and now at the present time it is not uncommon for a hen to lay 300 eggs per year, and some few individuals have laid very near 300.

This should prove to those that doubt that poultry can be improved by selection and proper feeding. However, these results cannot be obtained by any "hit and miss" method, but by a careful selection of the best. A great many start buying poultry by buying eggs or stock from some good breeder, and because they say what they consider a high price they think that all the chicks hatched from those eggs or stock will be good. Then instead of selecting the best they use any of 25, with the result that in a few generations the stock soon deteriorates, and the party does not understand why.

Others are always looking for cheap stock, and they usually get cheap stock, although it is generally dead in the end. These latter are the ones who say there is nothing in poultry. In this world, if you want anything of value you must pay for it. You cannot get it for nothing, so if you want stock that will give good results you must pay a fair price for it. A hen or pullet that is laying now or about ready to lay is easily worth from $2.00 to $2.50, for if she only lays fifteen or twenty eggs per month for the next four months she will have paid for herself.

Can this be done in any other branch of live stock? I do not think so, yet some say there is nothing in poultry. The way some poultry is kept, and the kind of poultry kept, I am sure there is nothing made, but if good stock is kept in a proper way I know there is a fair profit in same.

VALUE OF FARM MANURE

BY CYRIL G. HOPKINS.

FARM manure always has been and probably always will be one of the most important and abundant materials for soil improvement. It is a necessary product on every farm and on stock farms a product which accumulates in very large amounts. If not used for soil improvement it becomes a worthless nuisance about the stable, whether in the city or in the country.

A conservative estimate places the annual production of farm manure in the United States at a billion tons. THE QUEST OF THE BLUE BIRD.

By REV. T. A. COSGROVE, PASTOR OF SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

"Brother let me have joy of thee in the Lord."
"Oh, the wild joys of living!"
"How good is man's life, the mere living! how fit to employ
"All the heart and the soul and the senses forever in joy!"

How can we find that joy? The question is instinctive, and at heart, wise and noble. It is the query how to fulfill destiny. Our soul is made for joy as the harp for music.

How? Anyway happiness is not found by seeking it. Happiness is a result, a by-product. Observe the child greeting an absent-while mother or the lover husband waving farewell as he turns to work. Love is the cause. Seek love at its highest, get it and the result, will be yours.

Happiness is not the quest of life. If you make it so you will lose it. The blue bird in the Land of Memory turned black. Sacrifice, suffering and sorrow are in the pathway but if you are absorbingly seeking the truth you will not think of them. The way may lead through the valley but on the other side is Zion. "These are they which have come through great tribulation." We are not here to chase the "blue birds," we are here to serve, to save and to sanctify. Life is not frolic in the field, listening to the "grass that sings," but putting a hand to the plough and not looking back. Life is not weaving crowns but living the heroic that deserves them.

How, then, find the glad joy of life? In the common ways of service and love. Maeterlinck's allegory is right. The blue bird was found at home. Your happiness is hidden in the cage that hangs on the wall in your own cabin. Do justly, do good, love God and man and the color of life will change to the blue of heaven. The bird became blue when it was given to the neighbor's sick child. Happiness was found when the happiness of others was sought and the children that gave their dove danced in uncontrollable gladness.

Why is this?
(1.) Because it leaves no aftermath of bitterness. Christ's way of service and love is the way of nature and nature is activity without pain. "Blessed are the meek, &c." The meek expect little and their vanity is not wounded; are free from jealousy and thus

THOUGHTS FROM REV. MR. COSGROVE'S PEN.

Our soul is made for joy, as the harp for music. We are not here to chase "blue birds," but to save, to serve, and to sanctify.

Your happiness is hidden in the cage that hangs on the wall of your own cabin.

Hide your life under a bushel and the people will smell the smoke and give the alarm.

Live to be useful, lovingly useful, and the self-satisfaction, God-given, will not count the cost.

A glittering, tinted hour, possibly innocent, with its pleasure is soon over, and the Christ that has no heart has no resource.

Self-indulgence is a harp with only one string and is struck with the leaden hand of earth.

can enjoy the joy of others; free from pride and others gladly share with them, their good; get the best of life because they can best enter into the best. Multiply this seventy times seven and you will begin to hear the murmur of the victor's song. Self-indulgence is a method of joy. But it is a mistake. It has the pleasure but it also has a sting. David's ravishment bred the agony that produced the 51st Psalm. Solomon's luxurious expenditure left him stranded with a pessimism that hated life. There is always a tragedy in a similar romance. Morality without Christ is another method. It too has its sting. If the standard is high, it leaves a dissatisfaction without attainment and is haunted with despair. If the standard is low, it creates a sense of superiority, a pride that has its own tormentor. Hide your life under a bushel and the people will smell the smoke and give the alarm.

(2.) Because Christ's way is supreme over conditions. "None of these things move me." Grenfell did not know the meaning of sacrifice. The joy of saving is so great that conditions are not thought of. Live to be useful, lovingly useful and the self-satisfaction, God given, will not count the cost. If there is disappointment, there is the promise, if there is failure, there is the Cross. But self-indulgence must have its conditions. Pharaoh must follow the slaves. Saul must have his music. The sow must turn to its wallowing. A glittering, tinted hour, possibly innocent, with its pleasure of scenery, music and show, is soon over, and the heart that has no

Christ has no resource. Morality without Christ needs conditions. Suppose it fails, and that is the history of the best of men. Then one of two things, either, the standard is maintained and justice will give no approval, no forgiveness, no mercy. The blot is there and remains and there is no atonement, no blood. Or, the standard is lowered, conscience is dethroned and there is the hurried reach for the fig leaves.

(3.) Because Christ way is the normal use of the powers of life. Serving Jesus is a proper use of faculty. It is obedience to a law of nature—sow, to reap, give to get. Self-indulgence, in the form of selfishness, is a violation and has no joy of promise or of better things. Life ought to be a progress. Serving Jesus is the maintenance of faculty and has in it the refinement of pleasure through restraint. Self-indulgence is an excess, an exhaustion of powers. Blase, Herod.

(4.) Christ's way is the exercise of the highest in man. Love is to be with all the heart, &c. Praise is with the soul and a. that is within. It is glorifying God with body and spirit. It is more than justice and truth; it is also mercy and love. Self-indulgence is a harp with one string only, and it struck with the leaden hand of earth. Mere mortality is a harp well strung but the artist can play only monotonously on the lower clef. Life in Christ is touched with the Master, divine and He transforms our strumming, childish effort, by His wondrous grace, into a symphony of enchanting glory.

VAPOUR TREATMENT

For Catarrh, Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat and Bronchitis. Everybody knows that breathing HYOMEI a few times a day through the little hard rubber pocket inhaler will in a short time drive out catarrh. Many people regularly use the vapor treatment at night in conjunction with the inhaler, claiming that it hastens results. This is the vapor treatment: Into a bowl three quarters full of boiling water pour a soft, tea-spoonful of HYOMEI, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for five minutes the soothing, healing, antiseptic HYOMEI vapor. Try it when using HYOMEI for any nose or throat ailment. HYOMEI is guaranteed by Evans' Drug Store to put an end to catarrh, or money back. A bottle of HYOMEI costs 50 cents; a complete outfit, which includes inhaler, $1.00.

ALFRED SOLMAN'S NEW SONG WHICH IS THE RAGE OF THE EAST

What appears to be the best song yet written by Alfred Solman, the author of "If I Had a Thousand Lives to Live," is the new romantic ballad just out called "Mine." Here is an extract of the chorus clipped from a sheet of the music just received:

The copyright of this song was bought last week by Joseph Morris, a Philadelphia man, for the sum of $15,000, the largest sum ever paid for a piece of music. Still even at a dime a copy wholesale, he expects to quadruple his risky venture. The few copies that reached town last week were eagerly seized by the fair sex and some of the Newark girls with classic tastes are already singing the song.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

An interesting checker tournament was held at Mt. Vernon Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon and evening. Messrs. F. S. Stimson, Dr. W. S. Turner and Owen Howard were the representatives of the Y. M. C. A. here. The score was 25 to 23 in favor of the Mt. Vernon team.

The Debating Club met in its usual session last night with all of the members present. An interesting time was had. The program consisted of a parliamentary drill. Anyone interested should get in line for this club.

The Y. M. C. A. dairy lunch counter which was recently opened is now running full blast. Home cooking seems to appeal to the boys.

There will be several basketball contests on the gymnasium floor this evening, beginning at 7:30. Anyone wishing to see some lively playing is cordially invited.

A class in English for foreigners has been started. There were several men out on Tuesday and Friday nights.

The comers and goers at the Y. M. C. A. dormitory are as follows: Densel Van Winkle of the Kresge 5 and 10 cent store has been transferred to the company's force in Columbus. W. F. Butler of the Wear-You-Well Shoe Company returned to his home in Van Wert, Ohio. F. W. Clingen of Columbus is now employed at the Collins Drug Store. R. A. Douglass of the Wheeling Y. M. C. A. was a guest on Wednesday night. Arthur E. Strauser manager of the Kresge 5 and 10 cent store returned to Marion after several weeks here.

The boys meeting last Sunday was attended by 320 boys. The meeting tomorrow will be held as usual at 2 o'clock. Some interesting things are being planned for the boys, among which is a night's entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. under certain conditions. An attempt is being made to line up the boys for Bible study.

The attention of all concerned is directed to the change of classes and rates of membership which was recently adopted by the Board of Trustees. The new schedule goes into effect April 1st. Several interesting changes have been made and should be noted.

A good time was had at the High School reception February 22. Owing to other entertainments on the same evening the attendance was not what had been planned for. The evening was spent in playing games. Refreshments were served.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra meets every Wednesday evening in the Auditorium for practice.

The Junior boys meet every Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock for a banquet and Bible study. There were 24 boys at the last meeting.

Frank L. Johnson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. will give an address to the Denison Association Sunday morning.

REPORT ANOTHER DIAMOND ROBBERY IN MAIDEN LANE.

The Maiden Lane jewelers are much alarmed over the announcement of another diamond robbery. Despite the careful watchfulness of police officers and private detectives, robbers gained entrance to the vault of the S. Rose wholesale jewelry store and made away with gems valued at $14,000. The burglars worked rapidly and cleverly and used an explosive to gain an entrance to Mr. Rose's private safe.

A wood substitute made of dried grass is being experimented with abroad for matchmaking.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature. BRADFELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

ECZEMA CAME FROM TEETHING

Watery Fester's Dried in Scabs. Would Dig and Scratch Her Face. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Was Cured.

"When my little girl was about eight months old, she was taken with a very irritating breaking out, which came on her face, neck and back. When she first came down with it, it came in little watery-like festers under her eyes, and on her chin, then after a few days it would dry down in scaly, white scabs. In the daytime she was quite worrisome and would dig and scratch her face nearly all the time.

I consulted our physician and found she was suffering from eczema, which he said came from her teething. I used the ointment he gave me and without any relief at all. Then I wrote for a book on Cuticura, and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drugstore. I did as I found directions in the Cuticura Booklet, and when she was one year old, she was entirely cured. Now she is three years and four months, and she has never been troubled with eczema since she was cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Freeman Craver, 311 Lewis St., Syracuse, N. Y., May 6, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, but to those who have tried the usual remedies and found them wanting, and who have lost faith in everything, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, will be sent post-free, on application to Cuticura & Chem. FOREIGNER MEETS DEATH ON RAILROAD

Walking on Right of Way Between Leroy and Oak Streets When Struck by Train.

Purne Annanias, aged 35 a member of Newark's foreign colony, was struck and instantly killed by a B. & O. train some time Friday evening while walking the tracks between Leroy and Oak streets. His dead body was found about 7 o'clock by B. & O. Track Walker Hillery, as he was passing along the right of way near Leroy street.

Immediately upon discovering the body, Hillery called Criss Bros. & Jones' ambulance and the body was removed to their morgue, where it was reviewed by Coroner W. E. Witzarch and later prepared for burial. Coroner Witzarch stated that his examination revealed the fact that the left leg was broken above the knee, the right knee was dislocated, both jaws were broken and a large scalp wound was inflicted on the right side of the head, while his left side was badly crushed.

The body was identified through a number of letters and papers found in his pockets. A large bottle carried in an inside pocket was found to be crushed into bits from the force of the impact.

Other foreigners who viewed the body at the undertakers' morgue state that he was employed at the American Bottle Company's plant, as a laborer, and that he leaves a wife and family in the old country. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

PRESENTED MUSEUM WITH COLLECTION OF RARE BIRDS

The Ohio University Museum is in receipt of two very valuable specimens, one through the efforts of Prof. Martzoff which was secured from Mrs. F. M. O'Hara, of Newark, and consists of an excellent collection of 47 birds, stuffed and mounted.

The other is an unusual collection of foreign coins and was presented by Dr. Charles Super.—Athens Daily Messenger

Mrs. O'Hara is the widow of Dr. F. M. O'Hara, and follows the profession of taxidermy at her home in North Fourth street.

She is in receipt of the following communication from Prof. Martzoff of the O. U. at Athens.

"The birds arrived Friday in excellent condition. They certainly make a fine appearance. I had the museum open Sunday afternoon and we had many visitors, and all were delighted with our new collection."

H. A. Albyn, O. S. U. graduate in horticulture and agriculture, and manager of A. H. Everett's Cherry Hill Fruit farm, is also the possessor of a fine collection of 85 specimens, recently secured from Mrs. O'Hara.

THE HERPICIDE GIRL IS THANKFUL

I am always grateful for real blessings, and I know of nothing that I need to be more thankful for than Newbro's Herpicide. Thousands of ladies not only in the United States, but all over the world feel the same way about it. To this wonderful scalp and hair remedy they owe their soft, long, beautiful hair.

Mary J. Terry, of Lovejoy, Ill., writes: "My hair came out until there was just a scanty cover for the scalp, I tried everything I ever heard of or read about until I finally used Herpicide. There is nothing like it. My head is now covered with new hair. I shall forever praise Herpicide."

Most hair troubles come from dandruff. Newbro's Herpicide removes dandruff by killing the germ which causes it. It also stimulates a flow of blood which nourishes the follicles. The scalp being healthy, the hair does not come out and the new hair is allowed to grow.

There are other preparations which they say are "just as good" as Herpicide. It is not advisable to try them. Instead of doing any good they may do positive harm.

No one is ever disappointed in Newbro's Herpicide. The results are always the same, always satisfactory as is indicated by the fact that Herpicide has been sold for years and has thousands of satisfied friends. It is the only genuine, original dandruff germ destroyer. There is nothing "just as good."

One dollar size bottles are sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications at good barber shops. Send 10c in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. W. A. Eiman & Son, special agents.

WELL KNOWN MEN

Among Newark's young business men and "boosters" none is more popular and enterprising than Ralph S. Wyeth, secretary and treasurer of the extensive Wyeth Wagon Manufacturing company of this city. Mr. Wyeth was born in Newark, October 5, 1877, his parents being A. G. and Emma Wyeth. He attained his education in the public schools of Newark until he had completed the high school course, when he joined his father in the manufacturing business at the age of sixteen years. He set to work to learn the business in principle and detail and has advanced by reason of his own merit and capability. He has gained recognition as one of the representative young business men of the city. He was married in 1906 to Miss Alice McCune, daughter of the late J. A. McCune.

TODAY'S COUNTY NEWS

LEAP YEAR BABIES.
Utica, Feb. 24.—Miss Lora Simpkins, cashier at the Meyer-Lindorf store, was born on Feb. 29, and will celebrate her fourth birthday anniversary next week. She would be older if the calendar hadn't slipped a cog and gone eight years from 1896 to 1904 without a leap year.

School of Applied Designs for Women located at 160 Lexington avenue, New York City. The institution was organized for the purpose of affording to women practical instruction which will enable them to earn a livelihood by the application of ornamental designs to manufacture and the numerous arts and crafts.

Ernest M. Merrill, civil engineer, Beckley, Raleigh county, W. Va., has just published an interesting and comprehensive report on coal mining in West Virginia. The report deals with the mining methods, mining quality and costs.

day, at which time the Country Embroidery Club will be her guests. Another leap year girl is Mrs. Florence Riggs, who now lives at Weston, W. Va. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Arrington of Morgan township, who have saved many dollars by having to buy birthday presents only on Feb. 29. But say! isn't it mean to treat a child that way—having them and the calendars misfit?

UTICA'S POPULATION.
Utica, Feb. 24.—The Utica Herald, basing its estimate on the vote cast at the local election last Saturday, claims a population of 2777 for the village proper and says that 250 persons reside in the Washmore addition, just outside the village limits.

MAY LOSE EYESIGHT.
Lock, Feb. 24.—William Quick, aged 4 years, was severely burned about the face and hands and may lose the sight of both eyes as the result of an explosion of gunpowder Thursday.

The lad, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quick, residing a half mile south of here, had in some unknown manner secured a shotgun shell. He extracted the load and touched a lighted match to the powder.

ALEXANDRIA WEDDING.
Alexandria, Feb. 24.—Mr. Robert Buxton, a banker of Johnstown, was married here Thursday to Miss Anna Hefner, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Mr. Colburn officiating. Only the immediate members of the two families were present. The couple will reside in Johnstown.

Mrs. Ellen Thompson, who has been ill for some time, is improving slowly.

BASEBALL BENEFIT.
Pataskala, Feb. 24.—A large crowd attended the O. S. U. glee club concert here last night and the baseball club realized about $60 from the receipts after paying expenses. This money will be used for financing the ball club for the coming season.

SMALL WRECK.
An eastbound freight train on the Pennsylvania was derailed here Thursday when an axle under one of the cars broke. The wreck crew consumed four hours clearing up the track. A considerable stretch of the track was torn up and one car was derailed. No one was injured.

Miss Mary Maholm of Newark is spending a week here at the home of Mrs. Frances Courtier. The stork observed Washington's birthday by leaving a baby daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Baird. The little one was named Martha Washington Baird.

A True Friend

Would not give you a drug in your food.

But many persons, of their own accord, drink coffee or tea day after day—ignoring the fact that there is a drug, caffeine, in every cup.

True, you may be able to "stand it" for a time, but the drug is there, and sooner or later is pretty sure to show in some annoying ailment.

There can be no relief until the cause is removed.

Simply leaving off coffee and tea will work wonders, but it is much easier if you shift to well made

POSTUM

It is made of wheat, and contains no caffeine or other harmful substance.

It DOES contain the phosphate of potash (grown in the wheat) which Nature requires for the proper nourishment of brain and nerves.
